East Germans Fight Off Reds With Clubs, Scythes

BERLIN, June 17 (UP)—East Germans were reported fighting with clubs and scythes today against Red police who sought to move them from a Communist-designated no-man's-land along the border of West Germany.

Refugees from the East German side of the border told of the fighting as the East German government for the first time confirmed its plans to form an army on the Soviet pattern.

The refugees said fighting has been under way for more than a week in at least 15 different villages along the 300-mile frontier between East and West Germany.

In some cases, they said, Roman Catholic priests and Protestant pastors, joined villagers in resisting efforts of the East German Communist People's Police to drive them from their farms and homes.

Other villagers burned their homes and barns rather than leave them to the Communists, the refugees said. The Reds want to clear a wide strip of territory along the frontier, ostensibly to prevent western "saboteurs" from entering East Germany.

But more likely to prevent East Germans from fleeing westward. However, more than 350 East German refugees have arrived in Berlin alone in the past 24 hours. Many had crossed from East Germany under fire from Communist police and border guards. Some stretches of the frontier were mined and patrolled by fierce dogs.

POTENT WEAPON

The proposed new East German army was expected to become a potent new weapon with which the East German Communist government can crack down on the restive inhabitants. East German Premier Otto Grotewohl announced in a speech at Leipzig Monday that all members of the government "bloc of anti-Fascist parties" had approved a declaration for formation of an East German army.

He said the proclamation asserted that East Germany had been "forced to set up its own national armed forces in order to save peace and to prevent the planned American attack."

Grotewohl spoke before 1,700 members of the National Democratic party, largely made up of former Nazis and professional German soldiers.

Its leader, Dr. Lothar Bolz, said the party hoped to make "Germans who fought under Hitler's banners... reliable fighters for the new Germany."

Mid-West Record Heat Wave Takes 125 Lives

CHICAGO, June 17 (AP)—Mid-continent areas of the United States got welcome relief today from the hot, muggy weather that has enveloped most of the eastern half of the country.

The blast of midsummer heat and humidity left a death toll of more than 125, including 19 heat prostrations and 109 drownings. The break came after several days of temperatures in the 90's and above 100. The cool air mass from the Pacific northwest, with refreshing showers, first hit the plains states and temporarily ended the week-long siege of collar-wilting weather. Temperatures were from 15 to 25 degrees lower Monday from the Dakotas southward to the Texas panhandle.

The Crisis and The Constitution

Unless it is solved by the final count of election ballots — which seems unlikely — the political deadlock in British Columbia will be without precedent in modern Canadian history. There can hardly be any further question about one thing—no party will control the new legislature. The real question is whether any government can be erected and can govern. The answer to that question is far more important than the fortunes of any party.

This unparalleled situation must be considered first from the constitutional standpoint.

Constitutionally Mr. Johnson, whether he is elected in New Westminster or not, remains the key figure. He is the premier, the adviser of the Crown, and his advice to the Crown must be accepted.

As soon as the ballot count is completed, Mr. Johnson must advise the Crown either to retain him as its adviser or to choose another. The right of the prime minister to advise and the duty of the Crown to accept his advice have always been inherent in the British system of parliamentary government and were finally established in Canada by the constitutional crisis of 1926.

The right of the prime minister to advise and have his advice accepted carries with it heavy obligations. He must be prepared to accept the responsibility for his advice and its results.

The duty of the prime minister in such circumstances is perfectly clear in principle. It is not for him to tell the Lieutenant-Governor which party has the best policy but which party can form a government and win the confidence of the legislature. The only concern of the Crown is to find an adviser whom the legislature will support, whatever the policy of that adviser may be.

Mr. Wismer suggests that the various parties shall confer, arrange matters and avoid the expense and confusion of another early election.

It is quite proper for the party leaders to confer and to see whether any two or more of them can agree on any arrangement which will establish a government with a majority of the legislature ready to support it.

It would also be quite proper for Mr. Johnson to remain in office without a majority, without the largest group in the legislature, or even without a seat himself, until he can test the legislature's wishes, just as Mr. King did in somewhat similar circumstances after the election of 1925—provided Mr. Johnson thinks that his government will have the legislature's support.

But obviously Mr. Johnson must have good reason to believe that he can win the legislature's confidence before he can advise the Crown to retain him.

If, on the other hand, he believes that any other person can form a government and win a vote of confidence in the legislature, he is bound to advise the Crown to call upon that person, no matter what Mr. Johnson may think of his successor and his successor's policies.

To judge these prospects Mr. Johnson may rightly discuss matters with other party leaders. The notion, however, that somehow a kind of unofficial secret caucus can make deals and settle these constitutional issues to suit itself must be dismissed at once. British Columbia is not concerned here with some minor point of procedure, some issue of party policy or the fortunes of individual politicians. The constitution, the government and the Crown cannot be made the playthings of intrigue to suit anyone's convenience.

The mistakes and misfortunes of parties and individuals can be absorbed, corrected and forgotten in the constitutional process. There can be no tampering with the process itself, no involvement of the Crown in politics, no escape from the principle of ministerial responsibility to the legislature.

Judgment on any action which Mr. Johnson or a successor may take after the ballots are counted must be rendered by the legislature, of which the government is only a committee. The legislature will say by its votes whether it is ready to allow Mr. Johnson or some other prime minister to govern. No one can possibly foresee the legislature's decision when party strength is so splintered.

For this reason it is essential that the legislature shall meet without delay after the final count of ballots. Until the legislature meets and votes confidence or non-confidence in the government of Mr. Johnson or someone else, British Columbia must live in a constitutional hiatus with nothing better than a shadow government. Such a situation cannot be allowed to continue a day longer than necessary. Before September the legislature should meet and end this state of suspended animation one way or the other. It is unthinkable that any zombie government should remain in office, without the judgment of the people through their legislature, for more than a few weeks at most.

In the interim—prolonged by the laborious counting of the ballots—the government is the government, with all the powers and all the responsibilities that government involves. It has no mandate or right to inaugurate new policies, to make appointments or to sign any but routine contracts. But it must administer the public business and it must enforce the law. The government, as the essential institution of an orderly society, is entitled to the respect of the public however the public may regard the political party presently administering the state. Whatever happens to political parties and politicians, the Queen's writ must always run.

... slain in bed

Island Man Held After Tot Killed

Duncan lawyer Frederick W. Galloway is being held under constant R.C.M.P. guard in Victoria city jail on a charge of murdering his two-year-old grandson, Robert John Horsfield at Mayne Island Monday.

The 71-year-old man appeared Monday before Justice of the Peace A. J. Eaton at Ganges and was remanded a week for preliminary hearing.

Discovery of the boy's body—his throat slashed by a razor—was made early in the morning by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Horsfield.

Mr. Galloway had been living with the family at the time.

He was charged with murder following an inquest Monday afternoon.

Coroner E. C. Collins said the man was mentally unbalanced at the time of the slaying.

Said the coroner: "The child died of a hemorrhage from severed arteries in the throat, caused by a razor in the hands of Frederick William Galloway."

The accused was said to have been recovering from a nervous disorder and witnesses at the inquest added he had been discharged from a mental institution recently.

He had practised law in Duncan since 1929.

The boy's parents had moved to Mayne Island two years ago from Duncan when Rev. Mr. Horsfield became rector of the island's Church of Mary Magdalene.

R.C.M.P. Sgt. Reg. Whittaker took charge of the investigation after arriving at the island from the Victoria detachment.

CATTLE PLAGUE COMPENSATION

LONDON, June 17 (Reuters)—The government has paid £153,832 in compensation for livestock slaughtered in the six-month-long, foot-and-mouth disease epidemic, it was reported today.

With three more cases confirmed today, outbreaks since last November now total 456.

Body Found

Drowned while on a fishing trip at Guy's River near the shipping centre of Knob Lake, Labrador, the body of David Claxton, son of Defense Minister Claxton, was recovered Monday night. The body of the 22-year-old McGill University student is being shipped to Montreal for burial.

1,000 Others Idled As Big Jobs Halted

A second major strike within 48 hours today threatened to close down the construction industry in Victoria and district as carpenters walked off their jobs on three major projects.

This followed the shutdown in the logging and lumbering business which became effective Monday when the I.W.A. men did not turn up for work and picketed plants here as part of the general logging and lumber strike that has more than 32,000 men idle on the coast.

Becoming more serious daily is the threat of 6,000 fishermen to strike June 22 unless salmon canners meet their price demands.

The Victoria carpenters found themselves on strike today with a suddenness that surprised both the general membership and the industry.

"The decision was made at midnight Monday," an official of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners said today. "By Wednesday morning all jobs will be out. About 1,500 building tradesmen, including 500 carpenters, will be affected."

First walkouts were at the bar-rack block construction at H.M.C.S. Naden, the Work Point project, and construction at B.C. Cement Co. Ltd., at Bamberton.

At a regular carpenters' meeting Monday, the decision to set a strike date was left with the union negotiating committee. It decided upon rapid action in view of an application for a lockout vote to the Labor Relations Board, made by 18 contractors of Victoria Builders' Exchange.

Arrangements were made to finish work on the roof of a radar building at Work Point, and to complete concrete jobs that are under way.

The bitter fight between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations, Ltd., representing 163 logging and lumber employers, was no closer to settlement today.

Both Sides Willing to Talk

The union repeated its stand that it will meet with F.I.R. Ltd. any time the latter says.

"We'll meet the union any time, any place, and anywhere when it complies with the law," a spokesman for the employers said today.

Indications are that the Silver Wake, now completing its load at Ogden Point, will be the last ship loaded with lumber here as long as the I.W.A. strike lasts.

This was forecast today by Cliff Richards, president and business agent of the local branch of the International Longshoremen's Association.

"We are respecting the picket line. The lumber which is piled up on the dock by the ship is 'hot.' By agreement with the I.W.A. we are completing this load from lumber of a scow loaded at the mill before the strike," he said.

Four more ships are due here in the near future for lumber loads. The Greek ship was scheduled to leave this afternoon.

"We are not necessarily giving this strike our blessing, but we traditionally do not cross picket lines without permission," he continued.

However, Mr. Richards added if lumber is to continue to be loaded in other ports by other than I.L.A. men "we will have to reconsider our position."

He stressed that the I.L.A. did not want to be in the position of being "picked on" in this strike.

He was curious as to what activity there was today in lumber loading at ports like Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Chemainus, Vancouver and West Westminster.

United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (T.L.C.) announced today its membership had voted 75 per cent in favor of strike action June 22 unless operators "make a change in their offer," said Homer Stevens, union business agent.

Fishermen want 25 cents for sockeyes, 18 for cohes, 10 for pinkies, and 7½ for chums. The canners' "final" offer was 25, 13, 7½ and 5½ cents respectively.

"We are prepared to negotiate any time," Stevens said today.

Cut Suggested In Canada's Labor Intake

OTTAWA, June 17 (BUP)—Immigration Minister Walter Harris was reported today to be preparing to propose a cut in the number of immigrant workers coming to Canada this year.

A delegation of the Union of Unemployed Workers, who conferred with Harris Monday said he would suggest in the House of Commons next week a reduction in the nation's labor intake from foreign countries.

The Toronto unemployed said Harris told them Canada would also seek to increase the percentage of skilled relative to unskilled labor coming to this country.

Altogether, approximately 149,000 immigrants had been expected to enter Canada this year. In 1951, 194,391 immigrants came to Canada, of whom 110,917 were workers.

'Crazy' Fire Rules Are Blamed for 7 Deaths

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 17 (BUP)—Grieving relatives today blamed a "crazy and criminally inefficient" fire protection arrangement for the deaths of Fred Thibault, 40, and six of his nine children.

The father and his youngsters perished early Monday in their flaming tar-papered home while North Bay fire engines allegedly raced their motors in garages awaiting official authorization to answer the call.

Thibault's wife, Julia, 36, and seven-year-old son, Lee, were in hospital today and doctors gave them little chance of recovering. They were burned severely when they leaped from a bedroom window.

The Thibault home was situated 400 yards from the city boundary in the township of Wildfield, which relies on city fire protection. However, official authorization for all township fire calls must be secured from township officials.

Thibault's three brothers—Alborge of North Bay, Ernest and Edward of Sudbury—denounced the system.

"It's crazy and criminally inefficient," Alborge Thibault said. "The engines were waiting for 15 minutes, maybe longer, before they could come. It might have made all the difference in the world."

It was 45 minutes after the first alarm sounded before the fire engines reached the scene. The home had burned down by that time.

An overheated stove was believed to have caused the fire.

ELECTION ECHOES

WELL, HERE I AM again, back in business at the old stand after a hectic month of campaigning. And it was hectic! Anyone who thinks electioneering is an easy job should try it for a week or two.

My most strenuous stretch came a couple of weeks before polling day, when I went over to the mainland to lend a hand to some of my fellow-candidates. An afternoon meeting in Burnaby and an evening meeting in the Burrard constituency were followed by my departure from Vancouver on the 7.30 plane next morning for the Kootenay and Okanagan.

EARLY HOUR

IN CASE YOU haven't had to catch that particular plane, let me tell you departure by the 7.30 flight entails catching the 6.30 a.m. limousine from downtown Vancouver. And, until I made that trip, I had never before realized how few people are abroad in the mainland city at that hour of the morning. The streets were deserted, except for the occasional milkman, and it was dead-quiet on a Sunday. It finally shattered all my illusions of the mainland city as humming with activity at this hour, with thousands of workers hustling along with lunch boxes to the shipyards and the mills and the factories. I suppose that went out when the ubiquitous automobile superceded the street-car as transportation, and when the factory canteen took the place of the old-fashioned dinner pail.

MOUNTAIN VISTAS

BUT I WAS bound for Cranbrook, and the snowy serenity of the Coast Range, the brooding silences of the deep ravines, the green of the valleys soon shut out that early morning impression of Vancouver quietude. And I relaxed in the contemplation of the beauty spread out below my eyes.

It was a good thing I did. For on arrival at Cranbrook, later than scheduled, I was immediately hustled by car to the little mining centre of Natal, some miles beyond Fernie. Fortunately the roads were excellent, but I felt my hair slowly rising once or twice as we hit 80 miles an hour along those mountain roads.

MINERS AND TIRES

AFTER SPEAKING at Natal at 6.03 p.m., I managed to snatch a meal at Fernie before speaking to about 250 miners and their wives at 8. That meeting was followed by the inevitable reception at which I shook hands with everybody—and finally got to bed at 1.30. Next morning I was on my way again to Cranbrook, to catch the plane for Pentiction.

Fortunately our speed was reduced to about 50 miles an hour on this return trip, which was perhaps as well, for half-way up a steep hill we got a flat tire. And I laughed heartily when my driver—who had hit the 80-mile-an-hour speed the day before—on getting out to investigate, nonchalantly observed that it wasn't the tire he had expected to go!

TIRESOME TRIP

OWING TO A SEVERE storm in the Rockies, the plane was an hour and a half late in arriving at Cranbrook, which didn't help my closely-cut schedule. Nor did the subsequent flight to Pentiction, for we got the tail-end of the storm and were tossed about like a cork, with disastrous internal results to some of the passengers.

At Pentiction, I was again hustled into a car and driven off at breakneck speed to Keremeos to address a gathering of women who had been patiently waiting for two hours. From there to Oliver, where, after a hasty sandwich I spoke at an evening meeting, after which I returned to Pentiction for what was left of the night.

BRIEF APPEARANCES

NEXT MORNING, I breakfasted with a group of business and professional women before taking the long road again to Kelowna for a luncheon meeting. I arrived there at 11.45 a.m. and, after fulfilling my engagement, left at 2 p.m. for Vernon, to address another large gathering.

Immediately afterwards, I was on my way again for the constituency of Salmon Arm, arriving just in time to speak to a capacity audience in the community hall at Canoe, in the centre of a farming district. And I got through speaking just in time to dash down the street to the C.P.R. station, where the west-bound train was flagged to take me aboard for Vancouver and home. Can you wonder that my voice gave up about that time?

Steel Shortage Hits U.S. Munitions Plants

PITTSBURGH, June 17 (AP).—The steel strike today slashed deeper than ever into the United States economy as some plants making munitions reported curtailments are near because of a shortage of steel.

In addition to the 650,000 United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) who walked out June 2 when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled President Truman had no right to seize the industry, more than 100,000 workers in allied industries are idle. These include nearly 50,000 coal miners in seven states and more than 30,000 railroaders employed by a dozen carriers.

Esquimalt to Vote On $300,000 Plan To Improve Roads

Esquimalt ratepayers will vote Saturday on the $300,000 money by-law for a two-year road improvement program in the municipality.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele hopes for a unanimous vote in favor of the by-law and says it will not cost the taxpayers anything extra in a mill rate rise, because present maintenance charges on the roads far exceed the anticipated interest rate on the loan.

Average annual interest charges will amount to about $9,000—maintenance costs in 1951 were about $9,000, $24,500 in 1950 and $18,000 in 1949.

'Serious Gulf' Over Finances

Newspaper Reports Canadians Critical of British Policy

LONDON, June 17 (CP)—Britain and Canada today were reported separated by a "serious gulf" in their attitudes on the United Kingdom government's financial policies.

The Manchester Guardian, putting into blunt words a feeling only hinted at previously says in a financial-page story that Canadians are casting an increasingly detached and critical eye on Britain's efforts to regain a trading surplus.

Swede Editor Pleads Guilty To Spying

STOCKHOLM, June 17 (CP)—Johan Fritiof Enbom, 33, a Swedish Communist newspaper man, pleaded guilty Monday to spying against his country for Russia from 1941 to 1951.

He is one of seven persons facing charges of spying and of plotting treason in the event of war.

Enbom, Communist agitator and editor described as the master mind of the seven-man spy ring, pleaded guilty as the trial opened. He faces a life sentence.

The state disclosed existence of the spy ring last February. The announcement caused fear and anxiety in Sweden. Secrets of the vast underground Boden fortress, a bastion against any invasion across Finland, were involved.

Enbom was accused of leading the ring and using the six others, including his brother, to collect military and industrial information to be sold to Soviet embassy officials.

Malahat Division May Train in New Navy Minesweeper

One of the new minesweepers Canada has built in its 100-ship naval building program may come to Victoria for H.M.C.S. Malahat, local reserve division. This was suggested by Capt. A. G. Boulton, national director of naval reserves, following an inspection of the reserve division Monday night.

The new ship will replace H.M.C.S. Sault Ste. Marie. The inspecting officer paid a compliment to the division on the appearance of both men, ship and divisional headquarters.

By the time the 100 ships are ready, Capt. Boulton said, the navy hopes to have 20,000 officers and men in permanent service. He hoped the reserve force would then number between 8,000 and 10,000 men.

PENSIONS PLANNED FOR VETERAN M.P.'s

OTTAWA, June 17 (CP).—The leaders of all four parties in the Commons today sponsored a move to establish a pension system for long-term members of the Commons.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House that the leaders, including himself, "consider such a plan would be a contribution to the strengthening of our parliamentary institutions."

He moved that a committee of the House be named at once to consider the details of such a measure. Actually, however, a bill providing for a pension for a member elected three times on a basis of equal contributions by the member and the treasury already is in existence and is expected to get quick approval.

STYMIED — In Washington supporters in Congress of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, stymied time after time in attempts for a showdown Senate vote, planned to try again today. They said they were not sure how they would go about it but scheduled a strategy meeting in the office of Senator Theodore Green (Dem., R.I.).

Senator Blair Moody (Dem., Mich.) said he saw a possibility of a vote today or Wednesday on the measure. It would authorize United States participation with Canada in construction of the $818,000,000 power and waterway project.

Canada has said she will go ahead on her own if the U.S. fails to vote participation this year.

CONSULTANT — In Seattle, Wash., Conservative John Diefenbaker urged the United States Monday night to accept Canada as a consultant in international affairs.

Diefenbaker, who represents Lake Centre, Sask., in the House of Commons, said that "We in Canada realize we are in a lifeboat together and that the United States is captain of the lifeboat."

But he added, despite the fact that Canada plays a smaller role than the U.S. in the democratic cause, it still expects to be consulted by the larger power on matters of mutual interest.

"We know that if the United States had not assumed world leadership a free world might well not have survived. But we cannot take our relationship for granted. We must realize there will be disagreements..."

NAMED — In Ottawa, Lieut. Col. E. D. (Dick) Danby, recently awarded the O.B.E. for service in Korea, is one of four senior army officers named today to attend the next course at the National Defense College in Kingston.

MUTUAL — In International Falls, Minn., civil defense officials from Manitoba, Ontario, Minnesota and North Dakota met today in talks aimed at mutual aid compacts.

Preliminary talks began Monday. The session concludes Thursday.

D. G. Harrison, deputy Minnesota civil defense director, said it was hoped to establish a legal basis for the exchange of civil defense personnel and equipment in the event of an enemy-caused disaster.

TOURISTS — In Ottawa Resources Minister Winters said Monday night that this may be a record tourist year for Canada.

He said in a statement that prospect is suggested by a record number of April entries of automobiles on travelers' vehicle permits, taken as a usually-reliable indication of tourist trends.

Mr. Winters said there were 96,378 permit entries for the month, 12 per cent from the corresponding month last year and an all-time record for April.

Travelers' permits are issued to motorists planning to stay in Canada 48 hours or more or leaving the country at a point different from the entry port.

SLASHED — Egypt today slashed a wide range of imports mainly from Britain—in a move to conserve dwindling foreign-exchange reserves.

Special permission must be granted for the import of luxury goods, jewelry, automobiles, radios, cotton piece goods, soap and other items.

Egypt's imports from Britain and most of the sterling area have caused a big drain in recent months on her sterling currency, it is said. These are reported to be down to £7,000,000.

"To have commitments against them of £22,000,000.

City Playgrounds To Gain From Gyro Golf Tournament

Proceeds from future Gyro Club hole-in-one tournaments will be used for playground development in Victoria, it was announced at the regular meeting Monday.

The next contest will be held July 16 to 19 at the Central Junior High School grounds. Grand prize will be a pleasure craft, and other awards will include a refrigerator, radio and washing machine.

Gyros have also set up a committee to study possibility of developing a five-acre property in the Cadboro Bay area as a playground. The property concerned is part of an estate being handed by Montreal Trust.

If you are sentimental about your wedding and engagement rings, you'll probably never remove them from your fingers. While working in the garden, you can prevent dust and dirt from getting into the setting by encircling a strip of transparent tape around the rings.

A battalion of about 750 Chinese struck at the hill three times in two and one-half hours today and were turned back each time by bayonet-wielding infantrymen standing fast at the bottom.

The six-day-long fight for the western-front, high point near C-orson is the biggest and bloodiest since January. Allied troops won a foothold on the bumpy formation last Thursday. They now hold three of its rocky knobs. The Reds have been counter-attacking bitterly.

A United States Eighth Army bi-ling officer said shelling by both sides was "very heavy" Monday and that the pace held up today.

Chinese tanks and self-propelled guns poured 5,000 shells on the three Allied-held knobs Monday. U.N. fighter-bombers and tanks delivered answering fire. An Allied officer at the front said the Reds have lost more than 1,000 killed and wounded in the fight.

Morale of Canadian Navy Men High, Newsman Says

(Editor's note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the forces in Korea, recently spent 10 days in the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan in Korean waters. The following is the last of a series of stories he wrote on the naval operation.)

By BILL BOSS
AT SEA. Aboard H.M.C.S. Athabaskan (CP) — (By Mail) — When it comes to going to war, the navy has it all over the army. That's specially true when "war" is a police action.

The major problem is morale—how to keep the men cheerful under tediously boring day-to-day service conditions.

The navy carries all its answers right with it. The sailor has immediate access to them. But the soldier just has to stick it out in his slit trench until either it's his platoon's turn to go back for an eight-hour freshen-up—or his five-day leave in Japan is due.

The sailor can shave and shower daily, get a haircut when he wants. He can change and smarten-up every afternoon. He gets three hot meals a day, and eats from chinaware.

There are at least two movies a day open to him, and he doesn't have to walk more than 200 feet to see them.

He sleeps in a hammock and gets lots of clean sea air. He can have uniforms laundered twice weekly in the ship's laundry.

Boredom is the enemy, but the man who doesn't want to do anything but sleep once his job is done can flop virtually anywhere. Many use off moments to write letters, and the navy's mail service just about equals the army's—10 days or more. Another advantage sailors have over soldiers is quick and cheap radiogram facilities. For 45 cents a man can message Victoria or Vancouver, using the ship's radio. It's $1.50 to Ottawa. The same message would cost a soldier almost $5 from Korea.

Economic and Political Failure

THE PURPOSE OF MR. GARDINER'S policy of high meat prices was to keep the farmers happy. The federal government unwisely listened to Mr. Gardiner when he represented himself as the voice of agriculture and the one man who could hold the prairies for the Liberal party. The theory that the farmers would thus be happy and Liberal, and that Mr. Gardiner was their reliable interpreter was put to the test in Saskatchewan a few days ago. The Liberal party under Mr. Walter Tucker was overwhelmed at the polls. Mr. Gardiner was repudiated in his own province.

The Saskatchewan election turned, of course, on many things besides the price of pork and beef. But it is quite clear that the farmers there are not happy and that they are not voting for Mr. Gardiner. Even as political Dangeid exorbitant farm prices, supported by the state, are an obvious failure. They have damaged the consumer, they have not satisfied the prairie farmers and they have not helped the government. Their only justification, if it can be called that, was the political convenience of the Liberal party, for assuredly they had no economic justification. Now they are seen to be a failure on all counts and the government must see that it cannot safely rely on Mr. Gardiner's political judgment.

The Canadian Press reports from Ottawa that Mr. Gardiner's beef deal with Britain will cost the treasury some $15 millions in the current year—the difference between the amount which we shall receive from Britain and the amount the government will pay the farmers. This is doubtless only the beginning of the cost. The total bill to the treasury, which is to say the taxpayers, will be much larger when the government is finished paying for the high and artificial floor placed under both beef and pork prices.

Unless sound markets are found for these meats the whole experiment will finally break down when Parliament is tired of paying for it and the consumers are tired of paying excessive prices.

The re-opening of the American market could rescue the government from the present glut of high-priced beef. No rescue is in sight for the mountain of canned pork which the government is daily piling higher and higher at the taxpayer's expense.

Yet the problem could be very largely solved if the government would let the consumer buy meat at reasonable prices. If the floor under beef and pork were dropped somewhat the consumption of these products within Canada would instantly increase. Canada would eat much more meat if the ordinary family could afford it.

That, however, is the obvious, natural and in the end inevitable solution which Mr. Gardiner is determined to avoid at all costs—costs to the treasury, to the taxpayers, to the consumers and apparently without any political gains to the government.

It should be remembered, that the government does not stand alone in this economic absurdity. Its high-price policy is supported by all the other parties. The Conservatives in Parliament have never ventured to suggest that meat prices should come down for they, too, are watching the farm vote. So is the C.C.F. The Douglas government of Saskatchewan condemns the federal government for treating the farmers unfairly and the farmers evidently think Mr. Douglas is right. All the political parties have been trying to buy the farm vote with public money but so far the only beneficiary is the C.C.F. of Saskatchewan which offers the highest price.

No one in his senses wishes to see farmers' prices cut too low. The principle of a guaranteed floor price is accepted by all parties. But the attempt to peg these floors at the levels of an inflationary boom with heavy cost to the public treasury and also at the cost of reducing the sale of meat is demonstrably ridiculous in economics and ineffective in politics.

Under Orders—Or Above Them?

AMONG THE FIRST ACTS OF Dwight Eisenhower when he returned to the United States were his requests for military retirement to inactive status and discontinuance of his salary of $19,000 a year.

His intention was that of any man of high integrity: to remove himself from all direct military affiliations before undertaking political activity. He shed his uniform, welcomed the title of "Mister" and became, as far as a lifetime of army service could allow, a civilian.

In doing this he was not only observing a personal regard for correctness of behaviour, but also the spirit as well as the letter of the law which forbids military participation in politics.

In contrast to Eisenhower's conduct is that of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, which makes all the sharper the criticism that the latter figure is now receiving in his own country. Since his recall from Tokyo for disregarding the orders of his superiors he has travelled his homeland in uniform and on the army pay list, stumping for the Republican aspirant to presidential candidature, Robert Taft.

His actions, while a matter for his own countrymen to judge, appear so flagrant as to raise eyebrows far outside the boundaries of the United States. Any attempt by his commander in chief, President Truman, to "throw the book" at him would, of course, provide immediate political ammunition in this turbulent election year.

MacArthur as a demigod is a little difficult for us, on this side of the border, to swallow. MacArthur as a martyr would be even more indigestible.

Evidence of Musical Growth

DR. WILLIAM NEIL McKIE, ORGANIST of Westminster Abbey, here in the course of a Canada-wide examining tour for the Royal Schools of Music Associated Board, bestows an accolade on this country. He reports high quality in musical work in all phases and grades brought to his notice in his journey across Canada, and notes that "it was stimulating to find such extraordinarily good work among the juniors."

From time to time Canada has produced outstanding musicians. They have been acclaimed, however, largely as a result of successes away from home. It has been taken for granted that the general domestic product has been adequate, if not brilliant. The tradition of music, despite festivals in various parts of the country, has not been one of the most notable accomplishments of Canada on a national scale.

It is not suggested here that the country now bids for recognition among the musical greats. It is satisfying, however, to hear from a person of Dr. McKie's distinction that Canadians are doing well in this field of cultural expression and that the young people are well grounded and showing promise.

Here, it would seem, is further evidence of the sturdy growth that is taking place in the nation in realms beyond the confines of materialistic and scientific progress.

A Hand For The Boy Seamen

THE RECENT FINANCIAL PLIGHT of Victoria's Rainbow Sea Cadets is well known to citizens. When the city cut off its grant—along with all others—the cadets faced a serious struggle for existence.

Their survival is due in no small part to the generosity of men of the Cayuga, who, at a meeting off Korea, voted $1,000 of their meeting fund to the local organization.

The size of the contribution is important enough. It becomes infinitely more valuable, however, when the source from which it comes is considered.

The seamen aboard one of Canada's fighting ships, hold the sea cadets so important that they have voluntarily relinquished their own claims to a substantial sum to support the organization.

As one of the crew members noted: "These kids will be doing our job one day." That is a fair assessment of the preparation the Sea Cadets receive here. The $1,000 from the Cayuga will be received with gratitude and pride. A new chapter has been added to the story of a fine youth-training agency.

Saving Face for the Face-Off

AS ADVOCATES OF INCREASED trade among the nations of the world, we like to applaud evidences of enterprise among exporters.

Some such evidences, of course, occasionally require to be set aside for further consideration. Japanese export of Irish shilleaghs to the Old Sod, for instance, or, nearer home, the pre-war shipment of "Indian" baskets from Nippon to these shores, were in this category.

We cannot help but feel, however, that an example noted at the International Trade Fair at Toronto, while unusual, is entirely legitimate. One of the exhibits there, it transpires, consisted of ice hockey sticks from Pakistan.

This, on a par with attempting to ship nickel to Sudbury or flowers to Victoria, represents a very courageous effort. In view of the transitory nature of many of the sticks made in Canada, it may even deserve encouragement. Maple Leaf Gardens or our own Memorial Arena conceivably could soon resort to the thwack of hockey timber grown and fashioned in Pakistan, where hockey, to say nothing of ice, must be relatively unknown.

Once established, the enterprising Pakistani manufacturers might attempt to invade the sacred portals of American baseball. The day might come when players would pose with their Karachi Clouters, in preference to the famed old Louisville Slugger.

But the thing could be carried too far. When we see imported lacrosse sticks of bamboo and nylon replacing our own hickory and hide we'll know the defenses of nationalism have been breached. And we'll call for a heavy tariff to protect our traditions if not our industry.

Strong Drink

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A THOUGHTFUL gentleman, writing in the Winnipeg Free Press, affirms that the reading of books is a highly dangerous business, not to be undertaken lightly, wantonly or ill-advisedly. For in this life partnership of the individual human mind with the collective minds of the ages there can be no divorce. You are stuck with it until death doth you part.

As the prairie observer, remarks, there are two kinds of reading, each with its separate dangers. The first is reading for information. This, as Bacon once said, maketh a full man, but also a dull and usually intolerable man. The victim of this unfortunate habit can seldom be cured. It is easier to cure an addiction to drugs than an addiction to facts, and the real tragedy is that the facts in most cases will be worthless and often quite wrong.

I speak here as an addict beyond cure. Though I can usually disguise it by a look of outer sobriety, I am one of those heavy problem drinkers of information, never entirely sober. Starting innocently enough as a mere sipper of the House of Commons Hansard, I have sunk to those deep, secret draughts of government bluebooks, white papers and budget speeches which, as every medical authority agrees, ruin both body and mind.

I MAKE this public confession at the moment because I have undertaken the latest of many useless cures. Secreting myself in the woods, out of temptation's way, far from statesmen, economists and all human companionship, I have begun to taper off on a harmless temperance diet of detective stories and fatuous novels. This may appear easy enough but I can tell you it is a hard fight. The craving persists. The old appetite for facts gnaws through the pages of some worthless and healthful book and, late at night, when there is no one around to witness this private vice, I find myself dipping quietly into the London Economist or ravening shamelessly through the New York Times. One carries the old and fatal infection even into this wilderness.

YET THE other opposite habit of reading only fiction and avoiding all facts is even more dangerous. The sweet cocktail of cheap fantasy can form an incurable habit just as certainly as the potentiation of hard, factual liquors and leave the victim in a worse condition.

The temperance reformers are rightly worried by the huge sales of government liquor stores. Few of them pause to consider how the public mind is being corrupted by the poison of books and magazines, sold openly to young and old in unlicensed premises. At least government liquor carries heavy taxes, discouraging its sale. Most of the current books are cheap and the poorest addict can afford them.

AS A RESULT, the addiction to facts, while deadly, is not a widespread vice. It does not matter much to society at large that a few unhappy persons cram themselves with useless information and bore their friends. But in an age when a certain amount of information is required if democracy is to work, it is disturbing to find most of America perpetually drunk on sugar-coated fables which masquerade as facts.

The wise and moderate literary drinker, I suppose, will keep his consumption in balance with enough vitamins of hard information to nourish body and sinew and sufficient sweet desserts to keep him agreeable and gay. Few achieve that sensible equilibrium. There is no sense trying to do anything about it, no use to offer advice to the addicts of either vice, no good calling up Alcoholics Anonymous or seeking a doctor's advice.

EVERYBODY tries to be helpful and understanding with the addict. You can hardly attend a cocktail party (where less harmful beverages are drunk) without receiving free literary advice from the illiterate.

A man would resent it if you criticized his clothes and told him what to wear on his body. It is considered quite good form to tell him what to wear inside his head. No one would think of entering a friend's house, condemning the furniture and suggesting that the owner buy a carpet. So no one hesitates to confront even a stranger and instruct him to re-furnish his mind on some new book. Even a doctor will not prescribe medicines until the patient asks his advice, but millions of well-meaning persons scurry about prescribing powerful printed drugs for everybody.

IT IS AS insulting to be told that one must read a certain book as to be told that one must change one's hat or the color of one's lipstick, yet curiously enough, this kind of personal effrontery is not resented. On the contrary, the person thus assaulted in his most vital parts usually accepts the insult and assent as if it were a favor. Instead of knocking the intruder down, as one would deal with a burglar in one's house, we usually apologize and make excuses for failing to keep up with the march of literature.

Bodily we are a brave species of animal. Mentally we are nearly all cowards. Anybody can break and enter without fear of the law. The Criminal Code says that no one may destroy your physical property or kidnap your person or sell you poison. The destruction of your mind, the kidnapping of your spirit is not only legal, it is a vast and profitable industry, much larger than the sale of liquor by governments, which are always preaching temperance.

New War

Toronto Globe and Mail

What is the meaning of this new war of nerves? Perhaps Russia is not moving toward active warfare against the West. But clearly she is concentrating upon the creation of so many trouble spots that a maximum number of troops, ships and aircraft must be engaged by us to deal with the ever-present threat of active violence and to prevent the loss of territory by default. The rest of the picture involves the stirring up of enough political, economic and industrial trouble to hamper and delay defense production in as many parts of the free world as possible.

June Is Bustin' Out All Over

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

IN THE last few months, after being on the island for two years, I considered I had scored something of a victory. I had learned to answer the telephone.

City people, coddled with luxuries and conveniences, can hardly appreciate what a feat this is. After all, in the city it is just a matter of the telephone ringing and you picking up the receiver. Child's play, really. But in the country this business of answering the telephone is a much more difficult operation.

Our telephone is a box affair, attached to the wall, with a little crank at the side. You turn the crank to get the operator, and I bet you thought this type of instrument went out with grandfather's handle-bar moustache, which just shows you how wrong you can be.

Then there are the rings. Everybody has a different ring. On our line, for instance, there are ten subscribers and each one has an individual call signal, anywhere from one long ring to four long and a short. The result is that the telephone is almost continually ringing, although the chances are nine to one that it won't be for you.

For almost two years I answered the wrong rings, because I never could remember whether our own signal was one long and two shorts or one short and two longs. The neighbors didn't like it one little bit.

But in the last couple of months I got pretty proficient and I was able to recognize our call almost without being told. And then just last week people stopped phoning us.

I couldn't understand this, and neither could my wife. After all, somebody is usually calling us, even if it's only about an overdue bill. For an entire week the telephone kept ringing steadily, as usual, but it was always somebody else's call.

It's funny how these things affect a person. After two or three days of silence my wife began to get shadows under her eyes, and she would say to me: "I can't understand why nobody calls me up any more."

I tried to cheer her by saying that everybody was probably busy in their gardens, but I had a sneaking suspicion in my own heart that we were being snubbed.

I didn't even feel like going into the village any more. I just didn't want to see people.

And then suddenly the other day I heard the telephone ring and it seemed to me that it was our call. With my heart beating wildly I made a dash for the instrument and when I took the receiver off the hook I could hardly control my emotions. A moment later my hopes were dashed to the ground.

There were two other people on the line.

Dejected, I was just about to put back the receiver when I heard a voice say: "Tragic about the Sturdys, isn't it?"

"What's happened to them?"

"They're dead."

"Dead?"

"Wiped out. The whole family and all those strange characters that live with them—Hamish and Little Augie and Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts and Anastasia."

"Oh, how dreadful! Who told you?"

"Well, I was talking to Amy Jones and she heard it from Daphne Doolittle. It seems the family were dead for days before they were discovered. That's what Daphne said. Apparently they didn't answer their telephone for almost a week and that got people suspicious, and someone went out to the house—and found them."

"Gracious!"

Gracious is right. I staggered away from the telephone, searched out my wife and gave her a pinch on the arm.

"Ouch!" she screamed, and started to wind up a haymaker.

"Just wanted to make sure you're alive," I said, as I ducked.

Well, we called the telephone operator and demanded to know what was the matter with our line, seeing that no one apparently could get through to us, and also that the rumor of our demise was somewhat exaggerated.

"Why, I've been calling your number five or six times a day and you refused to answer," the operator said.

"Listen," I exploded, "for over a week now there have been no 'one short and two longs' rung on this telephone."

"Your number has been changed, sir," said the operator. "Your ring is now one long and two shorts. Didn't you know?"

That's living, country-style.

Lax Control

Montreal Star

It has been reported that for months the Koje prisoners ran their compounds to suit themselves, that guards didn't dare venture inside some of them. One is inclined to believe the story, after recent scenes.

A few secreted or smuggled weapons might be expected. Not knives or spear-points made in a compound blacksmith shop. Not home-made gasoline bombs. These preparations, and the tunnels uncovered, lead one to feel that the reported plot to seize the whole island might with a little more time have been tried, and might well have succeeded. Beside that, the kidnapping of Gen. Dodd would have been a small affair.

Sky Trails Give Warning

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

ANOTHER of those moments has come which most people in this country have hopefully believed never would come, even though their coming was logically inevitable.

In brief, the active reconnaissance of this continent by the Soviet strategic air force has now begun. About six months ago, the Soviet equivalent of a wing of TU-4s, or perhaps two wings, moved into new bases on Kamchatka, across the Bering Strait from Alaska. Since then, the air reconnaissance has been going forward.

Four claimed contrails, which are the vapor trails left by aircraft flying at altitude, have been sighted in recent months. Of these claimed sightings, two have been dismissed after careful investigation as probably the result of special atmospheric conditions and cloud effects.

But two others, one on the north Alaskan coast and one in northern Canada, are held to have been the genuine traces of Soviet air reconnaissance missions. And the Alaskan sighting, at least, is further held to have been confirmed by the evidence of the radar net.

This development both is and is not a cause for deep concern. To begin with the sedative arguments, this air reconnaissance of our continent which the Soviets have now started is only the equivalent of what the United States has been doing for some time past.

American long-range aircraft have been flying reconnaissance operations on the Siberian coast since before Korea; and they have gone in far enough for interception to be attempted on more than one occasion.

In short, even though Canadian territory was certainly violated if the second probable sighting was genuine, there is nothing immediately war-like in this new development.

On the other hand, the development is a grim warning; and it is reasonable to be concerned because the warning is not being acted on.

What has happened plainly indicates the growing size and power of the Soviet strategic air force. It suggests that this Soviet air force, if not a threat to us today, will almost surely become a very grave threat indeed before very long.

We probably have a little time left to put our own air defenses in order. But this is the beginning of an ending. And if we do not use this time which we still have to the limit of our capacities, the danger will be upon us before our defenses are prepared.

Something of the poverty of our present defenses is suggested by the fact that visual evidence has provided the main proof of the presence of Soviet aircraft.

Even in the Alaskan case, the sighting of the contrail was positive while the blip on the radar screen was arguable. And in the Canadian case, marked as a probable, the Soviet plane appears to have found a big hole in the radar net.

The radar warning system is being improved, of course, although the rate of investment in vitally necessary airborne early warning equipment still leaves much to be desired.

The trouble is that if an all-out effort is delayed for another year, the completion of the air defense of this country will also be delayed by a year. And these contrails in our sky should be proof enough that any such delay is intolerable.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where traffic experts are saying that the modern long straight highways are a menace. They're so easy to drive over drivers fall asleep. You could say the same thing for the new cars, too. They're so silent, so smooth and nothing ever goes wrong with them. It's no wonder a fella can drift off from reality, and from the road, after an hour or two of flying along. In the old days the road bumps kept you awake, and the periodic stops to cool the engine, pump up a tire, clean out a carburetor or locate a new rattle kept you alert. Nobody ever fell asleep in a Model T, unless it refused to go and there wasn't anything else to do. It looks like safety and comfort are going to be the death of us yet. Going down!"

"It's a fact," said the Elevator Man, "that you can overdo your safeguards against danger. You come to depend so much on mechanical progress that you neglect your own resources. You don't bother watching to see if there's another car coming around the corner; you leave it to the traffic lights to handle the matter. You travel at speeds that can kill you, trusting to good cars and good roads to protect you. You deaden your own survival processes like a fella who uses wonder drugs so much he lowers his body's inherent resistance to disease. Cotton batting is wonderful protection but it can smother you too. Lower main!"

"It looks," said the Elevator Man, "like we may have to get back to the old ways of struggle and trouble, just to preserve our survival instincts and ourselves. The day may come when car manufacturers will advertise engines that will develop a startling rattle or a scaring whistle after every hour of steady running. Special attachments will periodically make a noise like a flat tire, just to keep drivers aware and on their toes. Arterial highways will be built with bumps and winding detours so drivers will have to watch what they're doing. But it'll all be done very scientifically. We'll live, as we die, as painlessly as possible."

Incredible

New York Times

It seems incredible that the controlling majority of the Republican National Committee should deliberately choose to narrow its party's appeal in 1952 by pitching the "key-note" of their convention to the ears of a minority of the country's voters. We have deep respect for MacArthur, the soldier. We think MacArthur, as a Republican spokesman at Chicago, is grievously miscast. Presumably for the purpose of winning a nomination the National Committee has jeopardized its chances of winning an election.

GOVERNMENT WINS TWO DIVISIONS

Drew Introduces Resources Plan

OTTAWA, June 17 (CP)—The Commons defeated two motions of want of confidence in the government Monday as members debated the use of Canada's natural resources and the need for conserving them.

One motion, proposed by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested a national policy under a free enterprise system to develop the country's resources for the benefit of Canadians.

Mr. Drew said he favors sending raw materials to Canada's partners for the common defense, but Canada should process more of her own resources into finished products at home.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, agreed more should be done with the country's natural resources, but not by private enterprise. He moved an amendment to Mr. Drew's motion deleting reference to free enterprise doing the job, leaving the implication it could be better done by governments.

Production Minister Howe, speaking for the government, rejected the motions. He said what they asked already is government policy. Furthermore they were want-of-confidence motions—motions that would mean defeat of the government is supported—and therefore could not be accepted.

The Progressive Conservative motion was defeated by a vote of 115 to 32 with the C.C.F. joining the Liberals in voting against it. The C.C.F. motion was beaten by a vote of 132 to 17, with the Progressive Conservatives lining up with the government. The Social Credit group supported both motions.

Victoria Marks Fourth Largest Gain in Canada

Of 14 leading Canadian cities, Greater Victoria has shown the fourth largest increase since 1941.

This was revealed in an analysis and study of urban growth and municipal finance prepared by D. C. Corbett, M.A., for the annual conference of Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at Calgary, June 29 to July 3.

Mr. Corbett is a lecturer in public administration with McGill University.

Greater Victoria's population increased from 75,560 to 104,303, or 38 per cent since 1941.

Biggest increase was 76.9 for Edmonton; 49.5 for Calgary and 40.6 for Vancouver.

"Rapid growth of big cities and of suburbs leads to certain difficulties in municipal finance," Mr. Corbett states.

He suggests the value of each town and city having an economic survey conducted by a competent analyst if municipalities are going to plan municipal borrowing and expenditure with a minimum of error.

Winnipeg Man Walks Calmly to Gallows

HEADINGLY, Man, June 17 (BUP)—Henry Malanik, calmly repeating the Lord's prayer, was hanged at the provincial jail here early today for the two-year-old murder of Det. Sgt. James Sims of Winnipeg.

The 50-year-old Winnipeg plumber walked to the gallows shortly after 2 a.m. (DST), 12 a.m. Victoria time, and the trap was sprung 11 minutes later. He was pronounced dead at 2:13 by Dr. J. R. Martin, the prison doctor.

About 40 persons, including more than a dozen Winnipeg detectives and uniformed police, witnessed the execution.

Malanik was convicted of the shotgun murder of the 42-year-old detective in an Argyle Street rooming house in Winnipeg's north end section July 16, 1950.

The stocky, 220-pound murderer, walked unaided and steadily to the gallows after being convicted in two trials and losing three appeals.

Oil Prospects

JASPER, Alta., June 17 (CP)—Mines Minister N. E. Tanner of Alberta Monday said Alberta's spectacular oil development promises even greater returns in future years.

Speaking at a convention in Jasper of the Poster Advertising Association of Canada, Mr. Tanner said continuing discoveries of new reserves indicate future oil production will be greater than that of the last five years.

He said 14,000 individual companies are participating in the development of oil and last year spent $200,000,000 for exploration and development.

If reserves in the sedimentary basin now producing oil should be exhausted, he said there is an additional reserve of an estimated 100,000,000,000 in the Athabasca tar sands region.

Prior to Mr. Tanner's address, the association re-elected H. D. Cleveland of Vancouver as president.

'BREECHES' BIBLE GIFT TO TORONTO

TORONTO, June 17 (CP)—Wycliffe College here has acquired a copy of the 1595 edition of the Breeches Bible, so called because of the peculiar translation of a verse in the third chapter of the Book of Genesis.

The Wycliffe College copy was sent as a gift to Rev. J. W. McDonald of the college, by his brother, Lieut.-Col. A. V. McDonald, a retired officer of the Indian Army now living in England.

The pertinent verse in the breeches version reads that Adam and Eve "made themselves breeches" to cover their nakedness. The King James, authorized version, reads: "And they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons."

Two-Year Term

CALGARY, Alta., June 17.—Gurney A. Garland, who posed as a minister of the Gospel, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary when he appeared in Calgary police court Monday before Magistrate G. H. Rose.

Among other counts, Garland was convicted of presenting a forged check signed "Reverend J. R. Wright" for a radio which he asked to be delivered to the "Trust in the Lord Mission."

An investigation by police revealed there was no "Reverend Wright" or "Trust in the Lord Mission."

Making Amends Part of Alcoholics' Reform

This is the third in a series of four condensations of Sunday night sermons delivered by Rev. M. A. J. Waters in First United Church. The sermons are designed to relate the philosophy and methods of Alcoholics Anonymous to the whole range of man's shortcomings.

The minister reviewed steps 8 to 11 in the program of recovery practiced by A.A. which disposes of resentments accumulated by the individual, and against the individual.

Here are the steps followed: 8. Made a list of all persons we have harmed, and become willing to make amends to them all.

9. Made direct amends to such people wherever possible except when to do so would injure them or others.

10. Continue to take personal inventory and when we are wrong, promptly admit it.

11. Seek through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God, as we understand Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the power to carry that out.

He recalled the words taken from the sermon on the mount: "If thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

"The Lord did not say 'If you have anything against your brother' but rather 'If your brother has anything against you,'" the minister said of the eighth point.

He mentioned the story of Zachaeus, the unpopular and wealthy tax collector for the Romans, chosen as a friend by Jesus. Zachaeus realized that to keep the friendship of Jesus much in his life would have to go, and as a result he became poor in goods but rich in spiritual values.

The minister advised against posing as a saint in the making, but suggested an attitude of "downright good will" and a sincere desire to make amends. But he warned against confessing or disclosing some past misdeed that might only hurt or make unhappy those who have been wronged.

"Seek the guidance of God in such matters," he advised.

Speaking of the 10th point he stressed guarding against any feeling of having "arrived" after having made what amends are necessary.

"We should continue to make a personal inventory because we shall continue to make mistakes along the way," he said.

Lastly, he said, one should learn to begin the day with God, to pray during the day, and to end the day with all our praying should be the prayer, "Thy will, not mine, be done."

Governor Rides Tank

Lieut. Gov. Clarence Wallace spent the week-end as guest of "C" Squadron of the British Columbia Regiment at Nanaimo and was treated to a smart display of tank exercises by the unit.

The governor, honorary colonel of the reserve outfit, also was the guest at an informal reception in the officers' mess. During his stay, His Honor rode in a Sherman tank and fired 76 and 75-millimetre guns.

Humber Names 'Y' Track Team for B.C. Olympic Zone Trials

Bruce Humber will take seven of his Y.M.C.A. track and field athletes to Vancouver Friday and Saturday, the Olympic coach announced today.

Humber's team will compete for positions on British Columbia's track squad to be sent next week to Hamilton for the Olympic trials, June 27 and 28. The "Y" team consists of four tracksters, two field men, plus one woman competitor. All have an excellent opportunity to make the Hamilton trials according to Humber.

One other Victoria runner who is rated a good chance to make the jump to Hamilton is Phil Matson, who is doing his running with the Royal Canadian Navy under the coaching of Lieut. David McKenzie. Phil has been Washington State College's number one mile runner during the past college season and could surprise another great Washington Stater, Bill Parnell.

Here are the Victorians who will be matching strides with the best in the province:

Rated tops is Bill Parnell, former North Vancouver runner, now calling Victoria his home town. He will run the 1,500 metres Friday and the 800 metres Saturday. His past performance of one big record-breaking win in the Empire Games in 1950, an Olympic berth in 1948, plus a third-place mile run in last year's collegiate nationals in the United States makes him B.C.'s best in the middle distance events. Lack of competition has left

BILL PARNELL

Parnell short on condition this early in the season but "he will be ready in Hamilton," says Humber. "He's coming on slowly and may not be at his peak this Saturday, but provided the team flies to Hamilton and does not take the train Bill will be in shape," is Humber's prediction.

Bob Hutchison is another home-towner rated highly by Humber. "He lost a close one here Saturday night in the 100 metres," said Bruce, "but watch for him in both the 100 and 200 metres this week-end. I think he can win both races." Bob will run the 100 Friday night and the 200 metres Saturday afternoon.

Hutchison is defending Canadian champion at 220 yards and has a big season of running for the University of Washington this spring behind him.

Running against Parnell, besides Matson, will be Cliff Salmon, another Olympic veteran.

Cliff ran 5,000 metres for Canada in 1948, but will run Parnell in the shorter 1,500 metre event Friday night, and then take on the longer grind on Saturday afternoon.

He will have to be at his 45 best to match strides with Rossland's Al Fisher, a Washington State runner who placed third in the 5,000 metres in the U.S. collegiate nationals over the week-end.

Perhaps one Victorian with the best chance to fly to Helsinki this summer is pretty Dawn Josephs, Canadian broad jumping champion and unofficial holder of the Canadian women's mark of 18 feet 7 1/2 inches.

"She'll have to get off her best jump Saturday, though, to make the trip to Hamilton," said Humber. "But I'm sure she will do it."

In the field Humber will enter Gordie Pynn in the broad jump and Don Wilson in the high jump.

Both are great potentials, says Humber, but lack of competition so far this season has left them short of their peak to date.

Pynn is a former University of Oregon competitor and has jumped well enough to make the standard set by the Canadian Olympic Association for the Hamilton trials.

The two other men in Humber's squad will run the 400-metre relay with Hutchison and Pynn.

One is Joe Isherwood, former Victoria runner still competing with the "Y" but residing in Nanaimo.

Isherwood won the half-mile in the Olympic Preview meet here Saturday and placed second in a fast quarter-mile run. "Joe could easily make the trip east but will run into fast company this Saturday with the return of Jack Hutchins from college in the U.S."

Hutchins placed in a tie for third in the college nationals over the week-end to Occidental's John Barnes, rated by many the man who will win the 800-metre run in Helsinki this summer.

QUAKERS BETTER BET

Max Not Ready To Join Stamps

DELISLE, Sask., June 17 (CP)—Centre Max Bentley of the Toronto Maple Leafs thinks Edmonton sports writer Don Fleming became "a little too enthusiastic about my hockey plans for next season."

Contacted at his home here, Bentley said:

"As far as hockey is concerned, Connie Smythe is my boss. I wrote him that Calgary had mentioned a coaching job for me, but so far I have heard nothing more of it."

Fleming reported Monday in a sports page column that Bentley "is all for the idea" of quitting the Leafs to take charge of Calgary Stampede of the Western Hockey League. He said Bentley told him he would like to transfer to Calgary but would have to be released by Smythe, owner of the Leafs.

"Before leaving Toronto this spring," Bentley said, "the Leafs offered me the biggest contract I have ever had with them. So I don't think there is any chance of being released."

"I didn't sign the contract and told Mr. Smythe I was tired and wanted to go home and think it over."

Max said if he were released by the National League team, he would want to line up again with his brother Doug, now playing coach of the Saskatchewan Quakers of the Western League.

"I'd like to play another year or two on the same line with Doug," Max said.

At Saskatoon, sports editor Cam McKenzie of the Star-Phoenix said if there's any chance that Max may be released by Toronto "there's a better-than-even chance the Quakers will reunite one of the most dynamic forward line combinations ever to patrol the ice lanes—Doug and Max Bentley."

McKinnon LEAVES WEDNESDAY

Salmon Heading East

Victoria's Pete Salmon was in town Monday for a brief stay after finishing up his first year of medical studies at the University of Washington.

Canada's greatest swimmer was here just long enough to pick up a ticket to Toronto, pay a quick visit to Olympic swimming coach Archie McKinnon and leave again for Seattle.

Salmon leaves the Sound city today with swimmer Jim Portelance for Toronto where he will train until the swimming trials begin in Toronto next Wednesday. Both Salmon and Portelance, an Ocean Falls boy who swims for the University of Washington, will wear Victoria "X" colors.

McKinnon leaves Wednesday for Toronto to start work on the big job that lies ahead. He will travel by train, while Salmon and Portelance will fly. McKinnon will meet both swimmers in Toronto.

Salmon has been getting as much swimming as his studies will allow and hopes to be in almost top shape by the trials.

Ever since Bobby Thomson cracked that penant-winning home run in the final 1951 playoff game, the weirdest things have been occurring in the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants. Not even anything that has taken place in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field lately can match them.

Look at what happened in the Polo Grounds last Sunday, for instance. The Giants were rolling along enjoying an 11-0 lead over the St. Louis Cardinals when suddenly the roof caved in on them. Before they realized what had happened the Cards had won 14-12.

Monday the Cards were leading 7-4 when the Giants came to bat in the ninth. Two walks, a single, an out and boom. Thomson practically duplicated his '51 feat hitting a grand-slam homer to beat the Red Birds, 8-7.

Willard Schmidt, who tossed up that gopher ball to Bobby, made only one pitch—and he was charged with the defeat. The rookie right-hander had been summoned to relieve Will Werle.

TWO PITCHES
The victory went to George Spencer, fourth Giant pitcher. He, too, made only one pitch. That was a double play delivery to Del Rice to end the top of the ninth. So we have the unprecedented situation in which two hurlers make one pitch each, one being credited with the victory while the other is charged with the loss.

SNAPS HITLESS SLUMP
Ironically, Thomson's game-winning homer came after the Giant third baseman had gone to bat 17 straight times without a hit. Eddie Yuhas, second St. Louis pitcher, set the stage when he walked Hank Thompson to start the last half of the ninth. Pitcher George Wilson led to Red Schoendienst and Thompson moved to second when Schoendienst threw wild to first in a double play attempt.

Davey Williams singled to send Thompson to third. Lefty Werle relieved Yuhas and walked Whitey Lockman to load the bases. Schmidt, a fast-balling right-hander, took over. Thomson's belt went clear over the left field roof just inside the foul line. The homer cut the Dodgers' first place lead to three games, erased what looked like certain defeat for Sam Maglie and overshadowed homers by Wes Westrum, Al Dark and Williams for the Giants.

Sedgman Seeded First In Wimbledon Tennis

LONDON, June 17 (BUP).—Frank Sedgman of Australia is top-seeded for the men's singles competition in the Wimbledon championships. Defending champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N.Y., ranks fourth in the draw for the world-famous tournament which begins Monday.

Doris Hart, the defending champion from Coral Gables, is top-ranked in the women's singles with U.S. champion Maureen Connolly of San Diego, second.

Americans were awarded seven of the top 12 rankings in the men's singles with Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt placed second behind Sedgman. Sedgman, top-ranked for the third straight year, and the left-handed Drobny never have won the Wimbledon title.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia placed third followed by Savitt. Ken McGregor of Australia placed fifth; Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, sixth; Eric Sturgess of South Africa, seventh; Mervyn Rose of Australia, eighth; Art Larsen of San Leandro, ninth; Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, 10th; Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, 11th, and former champion Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 12th.

American women, who have dominated international tennis since Helen Wills won the first of her eight Wimbledon titles in 1927, were awarded the five top spots in the ladies' singles.

McKinnon figures Salmon for an Olympic berth and don't be surprised if the big Victoria boy brings the city still more honors and is appointed captain of Canada's swim team.

Portelance has been going through gruelling training at Washington and is swimming better than ever before, according to his college coach, Jack Torney.

Most experts figure the diminutive Ocean Falls lad, with Empire games experience, should be one of Canada's best Olympic hopes this summer.

OLD BOBO BOUNDS BACK, JOINS PHILADELPHIA A's

PHILADELPHIA, June 17 (AP)—One of the most traveled men in baseball, Louis (Bobo) Newsom is back in the major leagues today—this time with Philadelphia Athletics.

General manager Arthur Ehlert of the A's said the garrulous 43-year-old Bobo, who started the year with Washington Senators, will join the A's in Chicago today.

Newsom broke into the big time in 1929 and has played with every American League team except Chicago White Sox.

TIME RUNS OUT ON TAYLOR

Butler's Break Loose in 13th

Butler's Aces 6, Chinese Students 1

The percentages finally caught up to pitcher Gar Taylor of Chinese Students in the 13th inning, as the Butler's Aces defeated the Students, 6-1, Monday night.

Aces sent 10 batters to the plate and scored five runs to break a 1-1 tie.

Taylor was in more jams during the time he was on the mound than normally occur in two regulation games. He walked 16 batters and gave up seven hits.

Still, Aces failed to score a run until the 13th inning. Students led from the first inning. Taylor himself singled home Jimmy Chan.

In the top of the ninth Hal Yardley opened with a single and Archie Sluggert sacrificed him along. Taylor elected to pitch to the ever dangerous John Furmston who bounced a hard single off Ed Lou at second base to drive in Yardley.

LOST CHANCES
Students lost a chance to win the game in their half of the ninth after getting Lou around to third base, and again in the bottom of the 11th when they put their first two batters on base.

In the 11th Furmston got Quinton Mar on a third strike foul bunt and retired the next two hitters.

Yardley opened the 13th by drawing a pass but he was thrown out at second base as Sluggert attempted sacrifice.

Sluggert in turn was thrown out at second on Furmston's ground ball to first and Taylor appeared out of danger.

DERRICKED
Successive walks to Willie Bann and Gus Hilton called for a hurried conference, Taylor going out in favor of John Oliver after throwing two balls into the dirt to Frank Kilshaw.

A walk allowed one run to score and Aces led 2-1.

That was only the beginning. Three straight singles placed a like number of runs and put the game out of reach after Ronnie Bann was called out between bases for interference.

Pitzer and Nex and B.C. Forest Products continue league action tonight at Central Park. Game is 6:30.

Tyee Rally Ends In Cloud of Dust

Garriott Thrown Out on Attempted Steal of Home

Tri-City 6, Victoria 5

A thrilling ninth inning rally by the Tyees ended in a cloud of dust at home plate Monday night.

And when the air had cleared umpire Red Eller was standing with thumb jerked over his shoulder and Tyee manager Cec Garriott was out trying to steal home with the tying run.

Trailing 6-1 entering the final inning the Tyees almost pulled a Frank Merriwell finish out of W.L.L. grab bag before bowing to Tri City Braves, 6-5.

An inning-opening walk to catcher Lillo Marucci started the resurgence, the Tyees having been handcuffed by Ralph Romero up until that time.

Tri City shortstop Don Lopes followed by dropping a thrown ball at second and then booted Jim Clark's made-to-order double play ball to load the bases.

Don Pries singled to the left centre field fence scoring Marucci and Cal McIvni who had batted for Bill Wisneski, second Tyee pitcher.

Garriott singled home Clark as Charlie Gassaway replaced Romero and Pries scored following a sacrifice hit by Chuck Abernathy and Granny Gladstone's infield out, Garriott going to third.

On the first pitch by Gassaway to Moniz, Garriott took the daring gamble, the play being extremely close at the plate, which if successful would have tied the score.

Eric Gard was the loser, his first defeat of the season after four consecutive victories.

Gard bumped into trouble in the very first inning as Vic Buccola singled, Tom Marrier walked and Des Charouhas was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases with nobody out.

BATS OUT OF TURN
John Kovenz singled home two runs before Nick Pesut was called out for batting out of turn. Joe Scalise, who had struck out before Pesut came to the plate, was called back to bat again and fled out to Garriott.

Leading 2-0 the Braves picked up a single tally in the fourth inning on Pesut's single, a base on balls to Scalise, an outfield fly and Lopes' squeeze bunt.

Lopes scored Tri City's fourth run in the seventh, riding in on Buccola's second single. Two errors by third basemen John Treece were responsible for Tri City's fifth run in the eighth, Lopes homering for the final run in the ninth.

Moniz drove in Victoria's first run in the sixth, scoring Abernathy. However, Marucci grounded into a double play with the bases loaded to end the main Tyee threat up until that time.

Clark made the fielding play of the game in the seventh inning when he went deep into the hole at short to throw out Buccola at second.

But it remained for Marucci to play a leading part in the oddest double play of the season. Bob Rittenburg, attempting to squeeze home Kovenz in the eighth inning, bounced flat on his pantes as he fell away from the plate, the ball landing a few feet in front of home plate.

Marucci grabbed the ball, made a diving lunge at Kovenz for the out and then, finding Rittenburg still in the vicinity of home plate, leisurely tossed him out at first.

Jehosie Heard will attempt to square the series tonight. Game time is 8.

Leaders Are Losers, Trailers Are Winners

It was a night of reverses in the Senior B. Softball League Monday as the league leaders were beaten and the cellar dwellers won.

High-flying Army went down to its third loss in 13 games when Tillicums, behind the clutch pitching of Jack Elliott, came through with a 9-6 victory. Elliott had a no-hitter until the sixth.

Esquimalt Athletic Association climbed out of the cellar by taking a 10-9 thriller in 11 innings over Timkeners.

Timkeners led 3-0 for six innings, but Esquimalt exploded for eight hits and five runs in the seventh and added another in the ninth on Alf Armitage's long home run.

Timkeners scored three runs in the ninth to tie the game up at 6-6 and force extra innings. Both clubs were scoreless in the 10th, but Esquimalt sent four

TYEES EXPAND PLANS FOR 'BIG' NIGHT

They've changed the title, added more dignitaries and tossed in a $700 television set as a lure.

That's the new set-up for Thursday night's W.L.L. game between Salem Senators and Victoria Tyees at Athletic Park.

Directors of the Tyees Monday night decided to expand "Waldo Skillings Night" into "Citizens' Night." The "wonderful Waldo" has promised to be on hand to pitch, with other councillors in the infield. "He will need some support," a colleague commented.

Mayor Claude Harrison, members of the city council, representatives from the municipalities of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt will be invited to attend.

The object of the game—to help pay off the baseball club's debt to the city—remains the same, one director pointed out in urging fans to attend.

The Victoria Baseball and Athletic Co. still over the city slightly over $4,000 for back rental on Athletic Park. Part of the original debt of $4,800 was paid off recently.

Rainiers Bow To Senators

Salem Senators surprised the Pacific Coast League Seattle Rainiers 3-1 in an exhibition game at Salem Monday night.

Seattle was the second Coast League team in a week to taste defeat in the Class A. Western International circuit. A week ago, the Yakima Bears reared up from the cellar to smack the San Francisco Seals, the Bears' parent club, 7-4 at Yakima.

Monday night the Senators, only four games out of the W.I.L. basement after six straight losses, hopped on Seattle's Charley Schanz for 12 hits while Sal DeGeorge limited the Rainiers to six safeties. Seattle tied with Los Angeles in fourth place in the Coast League, had lost only one game in 14 P.C.L. starts before they went up against the Senators.

Parker Pulls Tennis Upset

In a marathon match that lasted two hours into darkness, veteran Jack Parker scored an upset 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 victory over fourth-seeded Warren Cameron in the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's annual championship Monday.

Nursing a strained back, Cameron found it tough sledding in the first set, but after being down 5-2 won five straight games to cop the set.

Wielding a smashing overhead shot, Parker forced play in the final two sets that were marked by long and furious rallies.

Top-seeded Ronnie Mitchell found a stern test in the person of Daryl Thompson, one of Canada's top badminton players. However, Mitchell held on to take a close 6-4, 7-5 victory with four straight games in the last set.

Today's draw follows:

JULIUS BOROS INVITED TO PLAY IN P.G.A. MEET

LOUISVILLE, June 17 (AP).—The golf pros are wondering whether Julius Boros was a fluke winner of the National Open title or a golfer who'll turn out to be a real champion. So they're giving him an immediate opportunity to prove his tournament mettle.

Boros, a big, rather silent young man from Connecticut who is pro at the Mid Pines course in North Carolina, won't be eligible for Professional Golfers' Association for three more years. But the Professional Golfers' Association executive committee voted to give him a special invitation to compete in the Professional Golfers' Association championship, which starts Wednesday.

This action was a temporary one, calling for a chance in the by-laws which limit entries to Professional Golfers' Association members and certain invited foreign stars.

ROGER LEGER 'AVAILABLE'

Cougars Renew Pact With Habs

The Victoria Cougars have renewed their working agreement with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Cougar owner Lester Patrick reported today on his return from the east.

"The agreement has been amended in some respects," Patrick said, "and I believe the amendments, which must be ratified by letter, will be advantageous to me."

Patrick also disclosed that Montreal-owned players with the Cougars at the present time who fail to make the grade with the N.H.L. club at training camp have been promised to Victoria.

"If we want them," Patrick admitted discussing the coaching situation of the Cougars with Montreal officials, "we said nothing had been decided upon."

"Roger Leger is available, if I want him," Patrick stated. "It is believed that other Montreal players are being considered for the berth held by Leger the past two seasons."

Patrick plans to remain in the city until the Montreal training camp opens in September "at which time the player situation will clear itself," he said.

Greco Scores Unanimous Decision

BALTIMORE, Md., June 17 (BUP).—Johnny Greco, Canadian welterweight champion from Montreal, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Luis Ortiz of Puerto Rico Monday night before a Coliseum crowd of 600.

Greco, who enjoyed a nine and one-half-pound weight advantage at 135 to 141½, had the Puerto Rican on the floor for short counts in the third, fifth and seventh rounds but was unable to knock him out.

SEEKS GENERAL REVIEW OF CONTRACT WITH N.H.L.

C.A.H.A. Calls for Showdown

MINAKI, Ont., June 17 (CP).—This could well be called emancipation day for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

This is the day the machinery will be set in motion for a showdown with the National Hockey League over an agreement that has been the cause for considerable concern to some.

Down for decision at the C.A.H.A.'s annual meeting is a resolution calling for a general review of the contract between the professional and amateur associations. Practically every phase of the agreement, signed first in 1937, will be under scrutiny—from the highly controversial option C to playing rules.

The resolution put forward by the Ottawa and District Amateur Hockey Association, is certain to be adopted by representatives of nine provinces, paving the way for a meeting with the N.H.L. relations committee at some future date. That meeting will ultimately affect every teen-aged player in the country who has the makings of a big-league star.

Meanwhile, the C.A.H.A. took a big step here Monday by adopting a resolution that will stop the importation of the west's junior players to eastern Canada for the next two seasons. It means that no amateur or professional club in the east will be given the okay to transfer a western junior.

Frank Almond Decisions McPhee

VANCOUVER, June 17 (BUP).—Frankie Almond's aggressiveness in the last four rounds won him a 10-round split decision over Ken McPhee in their non-title bout Monday night at Vancouver.

A 10-round Canadian featherweight champion, won the decision from the judges. The referee voted the fight even. Almond weighed in at 125½, McPhee 129. There were no knockdowns.

OAK BAY SCHOOL BEATS SCHEDULE

Will Be Operated as Elementary, September To Jan. 1, 1953; May Introduce Shift System

Oak Bay Junior High School, nearly complete three to four months ahead of schedule, will be operated as an elementary school from Sept. to Jan. 1, 1953.

At the same time owing to possibility of a start on construction of the new Central Junior High School in September, parents have been notified of a possible "shift" system at the school.

Both matters were brought to a meeting of the Greater Victoria Board of School Trustees Monday night by J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector. He felt it would be "ridiculous" to crowd 50 to 60 children in Willows School auditorium with the new Oak Bay High School ready. The board agreed.

Occupation of the new building "on an elementary basis" will accommodate some 250 Grade 7 and 8 pupils, he said. He stated registrations of new pupils at Willows, Monterey and Margaret Jenkins were higher than anticipated.

OUT OF BOUNDS
Certain portions of the building such as the home economics and industrial arts, gymnasium and auditorium would not be needed and would be out of bounds for instructional purposes," Mr. English said. Since the building was not slated for occupancy until Jan. 1, equipment and staff were not provided for its operation as a junior high until then, he added.

Mr. English submitted plans and specifications for Macdonald Park Primary School for approval of the board. He suggested also that plans and specifications for additions and alterations at Mt. Douglas School be undertaken as soon as possible. He said Hubert Savage, architect, was free to proceed. The board concurred.

Pioneer Battalion Veterans to Hold Reunion Banquet
Reunion dinner of the 48th Battalion (3rd Canadian Pioneers) of First World War will be held in the Britannia Branch legion hall June 28.

The dinner commemorates the battalion's departure from the Willows 37 years ago, June 25, Lieut.-Col. W. J. H. Holmes commanding. The 48th was the fourth infantry battalion to go overseas from B.C.

A caravan of cars will meet the Vancouver steamer on the afternoon of the dinner date and will proceed over the route members marched as they departed from the Willows camp in 1915.

The battalion was joined in England by a company of the 62nd from Vernon. After two years of active service as a unit, it was broken up after the Vimy Ridge fighting, two companies going to the 7th and two to the 29th. Some members also served in Second World War.

MRS. MAUNSELL URGED TRUSTEE

Appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Maunsell, 138 Eberts Street, as a trustee was recommended by Greater Victoria School Board Monday night.

Edward H. Carey, elected in December, 1949, for a two-year term, resigned early this year. Mrs. Maunsell, runner-up to Mr. Carey in the '49 election, would fill his unexpired term to Dec. 31, this year.

Since City Council took no action on the vacancy, the board will recommend Mrs. Maunsell's name to the Council of Public Instruction. She received 3,973 votes to Mr. Carey's 4,694 in 1949.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The only detectable ray of sunshine in the gloom cast by the woodworkers' strike is to be found on the Island Highway. You can now drive up Four Mile Hill without being slowed down by a logging truck.

(You are slowed down by a truck hauling heavy machinery instead.)

During a C.B.C. broadcast Saturday, Bill Herbert, the special events man, made reference to "Vancouver's Beacon Hill Park."

I make no special complaint about this, knowing how desperate Vancouver is for scenic attractions.

But if they are going to claim Beacon Hill Park, the least they can do is catch the marauding racoon.

S. W. Craven, 6 Norman Court, Esquimalt, has revived that ancient poem "Preservation of Man" and sends it along as a fitting requiem for the sound and fury which preceded the liquor plebiscite.

It isn't new, Mr. Craven—but it's funny:

"The horse and mule live 30 years,
And nothing know of wines and beers.
"The goat and sheep at 20 die
With never a taste of bourbon or rye.
"The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is mostly done.
"The dog at 16 cashes in
Without the aid of rum or gin.
"The cat in milk and water soaks
And then in 12 short years it croaks.
"The modest, sober, bone dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at 10.
"All animals are strictly dry
They sinless live and swiftly die.
"But sinful, glib, rye-soaked men Survive for three score years and 10."

I am intrigued by this classified advertisement in yesterday's paper:

STRAPLESS EVENING GOWN, SIZE 16,
like new. $20. Phone B—

Are we to presume the present owner has discovered it is not the original cost, but the upkeep?

And in the classified columns of a Toronto paper:
EXPERIENCED SECRETARY DESIRES
interesting evening work.
She may be experienced, but hardly disillusioned.

Bigger Timber Orders From U.K. Predicted

Heavy softwood timber buying by the United Kingdom in 1953 was forecast in a special article in the latest edition of The Times Review of Industry (London, England) received here.

Titled "Timber Trade's Call for Greater Freedom," the article outlined government trade restrictions of the past two years which limited softwood imports to Britain from all over the world in our effort to reduce prices.

It stated the Labor government's 1950 policy which had "disastrous effect" is being repeated.

point" when the timber control held off buying to break the shipper's resistance and decrease prices, according to the article.

The special correspondent stated shippers knew, after the experience of 1950-51, that drastic cuts imposed by Britain this year "cannot long continue."

"Almost inevitably there must be further heavy buying in 1953," he wrote.

"Among better-class shippers there has been no rush to cut prices."

"There is a growing body of opinion in the trade (timber) today which believes the time has arrived when all controls over consumption and overseas purchases should be abandoned."

The writer stated it was felt that if "normal interaction of supply and demand" were given free rein "a gradual and orderly reduction of shippers' prices could be attained."

Strikes May Hit Schools

Forecast 'Shift System' for Many Students if Carpenters Stay Out

A critical shortage of school accommodation next September may result if the woodworkers' and carpenters' strikes are of long duration.

Provincial education department officials said today any lengthy hold-up of new school construction in the strike-bound areas will present "terrific accommodation problems" when the new term starts in the fall.

There will be 12,500 new children starting to school in September. A large number of new schools to handle them are under construction.

Officials said the "shift system" of education would have to be instituted in many schools. They felt that would be the only way they could avoid turning down new pupils.

B.C.'s school construction has been going at a steady pace ever since the end of the Second World War. In the past five years 2,000 new classrooms have been built. Total school population in September will be 192,500.

Poultry Price Threatened by Surplus Beef

An important meeting of poultry raisers has been called for 8 p.m. Wednesday, at Royal Oak, to discuss a request for a producers' floor price on poultry meat, it was learned today from V. E. Virgin, Keating.

Mr. Virgin, president of the South Vancouver Island Poultry Producers' Association, said surplus stocks of beef threaten to force down the price of poultry meat.

"There isn't a big surplus of poultry meat," he said. "But with all the beef now in cold storage anything can happen to the poultry industry."

Mr. Virgin said the question of establishing a floor-price for poultry meat is now being discussed in Ottawa between officials of the Department of Agriculture and the directors of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

"We feel that the Federal Government should set a floor price on poultry meat as it has done for beef," said Mr. Virgin. "What is good for one, is also good for another."

H. D. Arnold, Duncan, president of the Vancouver Island Co-operative Poultry Association, will open discussion at the meeting.

Short-Changed On Lend-Lease Ships, Is Claim

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UPI)—American officials today accused Russia of short-changing the United States by agreeing to return only 186 of 670 lend-lease ships.

They said the United States wants to recover every one of the vessels that is still afloat and that this country will refuse to sell any of them as the Russians have suggested.

The surprise Soviet offer to return the 186 ships came Monday when Charge d'Affaires Boris I. Karavaev suddenly reopened the long-dormant negotiations for a settlement of Russia's World War II lend-lease debt. Negotiations were scheduled to resume today.

In a bulky note which Karavaev handed to the State Department, Russia suggested that it buy 167 ships, rejected a U.S. move to put the case before the International Court, and again offered only $300,000,000 to settle up its $11,000,000,000 lend-lease account.

This was the word today from Leopold Langlois, parliamentary assistant to Postmaster-General Alcide Cote, in Victoria for the 17th annual parley of B.C. postmasters at the Empress Hotel. He represented Mr. Cote.

"The building is all ready but for equipment," Mr. Langlois said. "A system of conveyor belts and letter lock boxes must be installed."

Orders for the equipment have been placed by the federal department of public works which is constructing the building, he said.

The postmaster-general plans a visit to the coast some time this year and it is possible his visit may coincide with the opening, Mr. Langlois said.

Feasibility of employing "mobile post offices" to bring service to those areas beyond city limits but not in a rural route district is being studied now, according to Mr. Langlois.

"There is a sort of no-man's land existing in these areas," he said. "They cannot have letter carrier service and yet are too thickly populated for rural delivery. At present the people must come into sub post offices for their mail."

Also under study by the postal department is possibility of paying prevailing wage rates to rural mail carriers, he said. The jobs are let out by tender across Canada and there has been much complaint that the wages paid are too low, he added.

DELIVERIES CUT

Cut from two to one residential deliveries a day in cities made in 1950 has enabled the department to extend services to areas not previously covered, according to Mr. Langlois.

Whether the service—reduced because of manpower and economic reasons—may be restored is a matter of government policy he said.

"We would be pleased if it could be done tomorrow," he added, referring to the postal department.

Mr. Langlois left today for Vancouver, where he will discuss plans for that city's new $3,000,000 post office.

TALKS ON LEPER WORK

Miss G. Amen will speak at the June meeting of the Victoria Mission to Lepers to be held Thursday at 3 at the Y.W.C.A.

Shown above on arrival in Victoria today is the all-boy family of Mr. Daniel Horn, architect, of Baarn, Holland. Mr. Horn has chosen this city as the best place to live in all Canada. Mr. Horn said that friends at home who had visited Victoria described it as the Riviera of Canada. The

SOLARIUM PUP GETS NEW HOME

The Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League golden cocker spaniel pup now has a new name—and a new home. Yvonne Conklin, a Belmont School student, who lives at Metchoshin, won the pup when she suggested it should be named "Golden Pride."

Close to 100 entries were received by the Junior League, and $30 raised for the Solarium.

Bids on New Highway Due Friday Noon

Tenders for construction of the new Island Highway outlet from Victoria will be opened Friday at noon, a provincial public works department official said today.

The federal government, which pays half the cost of the project because it is part of the Trans-Canada Highway system, has approved the plans.

Work is expected to start within two weeks after the contract is awarded.

The tenders will cover the first section of the outlet—from the city limits to vicinity of the Six Mile House.

Construction of the second portion, from Six Mile House to Langford Lake, is scheduled for next year.

Ack-Ack Sent To Strategic U.S. Centres

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—The United States army said today it has sent anti-aircraft batteries to defensive positions about some strategic industrial plants, big cities and air force centres.

An announcement said the move "has no special significance" but it came on the heels of air force orders for an around-the-clock watch for possible enemy planes.

Civilian defense workers will keep the vigil, beginning July 14, Maj. Gen. Frederic Smith Jr., deputy director of the air defense command, said at a press conference Monday it is necessary because "the Soviets have had the capability for some time to attack us."

The army said it has deployed anti-aircraft units to field positions to provide "an increased state of operational readiness" for the country's defenses.

U-DRIVE, FIRE RIDES

Saanich firemen extinguished a fire in the front seat of a U-Drive car on Cadboro Bay Road early today. Damage was light.

Suggest Victoria Park As George VI Memorial

Several types of memorials to the late King George VI have been suggested to the Native Sons of British Columbia, Post No. 1, of Victoria, it was learned today.

Suggestions for a memorial followed an announcement last week that the post is launching a campaign for a memorial to honor the first British sovereign to visit Canada.

Invitations are being sent to clubs and societies to participate in the campaign. The type of memorial will be left to a special committee to decide.

Suggestions for a memorial include a park to be located somewhere in Greater Victoria.

Four persons suggested outdoor swimming pools in Beacon Hill Park or at Goldstream Park.

An aquarium also seems to be popular with some people.

There is a suggestion for a monument which would commemorate the king and service men who fought in World War II.

Some people feel the memorial should be in the form of some worthwhile boys' project. They point out that the late King did much to encourage boys' work.

'Unauthorized Landing' in Pilot's Death

EDMONTON, June 17 (CP)—A coronor's jury yesterday ruled that the pilot of an R.C.A.F. Mustang fighter "made an unauthorized landing" at the Edmonton airport last Feb. 4 when his aircraft crashed into a light civilian plane, killing the pilot.

Killed in the crash was Lloyd Letcher, 29-year-old Edmonton flying club instructor. Letcher's student, Marshall Albert Harrison, 21, of Edmonton, was seriously burned and still is in hospital. The Mustang pilot, F.O. W. C. Veales, also of Edmonton, suffered minor injuries.

The Mustang landed behind the light plane on the same runway and rammed into it. The flying club plane burst into flames.

F.O. Veales, a member of the R.C.A.F. central experimental and proving establishment at Namao airport eight miles north of Edmonton, testified that he had interpreted the words of a transport department controller in the control tower as clearance to land.

The army said it has deployed anti-aircraft units to field positions to provide "an increased state of operational readiness" for the country's defenses.

ONLY WATER AS GUSHER BLOWS

A water main in the centre of Douglas and Princess broke shortly before noon today and threw water into the air as high as 60-70 feet for a half-hour before waterworks workmen could bring it under control.

Workmen were around the manhole working on the main when the gusher came in. Escaping water, soon flooded the east side sidewalks of Pembroke intersection. No one was hurt, but workmen got a bad soaking.

Tax Charge Costs City Man $200

City businessman Randolph W. Tervo was fined $200 in police court today for failing to file income tax returns over a six-year period.

The charge was laid under the Income Tax Act.

City prosecutor Alan Bigelow told Magistrate H. C. Hall that under the act "the court may not suspend sentence . . . the minimum fine is $200."

The returns covered a period between and including 1946-1951.

Mr. Bigelow said it was not the policy of the Income Tax department to lay charges in cases of this sort—the charges were laid by his office.

"It is a last-resort measure," he said.

BOTTLE CLUE

Police Chief Vernon Lawley said today a pop bottle with fingerprints smudged on it has been discovered near the spot where a large pool of blood was found Sunday on the West Saanich Road.

He said it strengthens his opinion that "someone must have taken a terrible beating" there early Sunday morning.

Chief Lawley is still searching for evidence that will lead him to the injured person as no report of a motor vehicle accident or injury has been reported in his municipality.

About "half a gallon of human blood" and pieces of broken glass were found on the roadway, in addition to a blood-drenched handkerchief and a 27-foot skidmark on property owned W. G. Whitby.

Saanich Grower Died on Monday

Canada's undefeated champion mangie grower is dead.

He was Fred Barnes, 66, of 3973 Cedar Hill Crossroad, a 42-year Saanich resident who passed away Monday afternoon at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Lancashire-born, Mr. Barnes back in 1923 planted a special mangie crop near the present site of the Lake Hill Lawn Bowling Club that established an all-time Canadian production record of 74 tons 800 pounds to the acre. Mr. Barnes grew one mangie going 50 pounds.

A stone mason by trade, Mr. Barnes did some of the stone work on St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

He was also a seed grower and poultryman.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel Friday at 3 p.m.

He is survived by his wife, Lily, at home; two sons, Sidney, at 3970 Cedar Hill Crossroad and Ralph Barney, Glandford; one daughter, Mrs. R. W. Lily Wilkes, Alert Bay; two brothers in England.

Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

DEGREE FOR VICTORIAN

Fredda E. Peden, 1320 Rockland Avenue, received her master's degree in social science recently at the University of Chicago's 251st convocation exercises.

Hospital Takes All Joy Out of Eating... But He's Still Living

Instead, they draw off a test-tube full every day from me. In return for the blood they take they give fruit juice, morning, afternoon, evening and at intervals in between.

Fruit juice is all right in its proper place. As a matter of fact I'm quite fond of it. But it shouldn't be allowed out too young. It should be carefully matured to a respectable age.

Then it should be bottled and tended for years until it can face the world backed with that proper authority which has been developed by grape growers from Biblical days and by Mr. Herbert Anscombe in recent years.

HOPE... BUT NOT MUCH
If it were possible to speed the fermenting process maybe we fruit-juice drinkers of "good old St. Joe's" as Roger Berry calls this hospital, could hoard our supplies and hold a real, exhilarating party every week-end.

One thing that is amazing is how they manage to bring meals pipin hot every time to every bedside. I forgot to mention there are 500 patients here besides me.

However, my appreciation of this is waning a bit now.

The doctor was in the other day with Superior Gandy—you know "Hap" Gandy, engineer at the Jubilee—well, she's his wife.

She seemed such a charming woman when I first met her. But the conversation between the two has kind of strained the first impression.

It ran something like this: "Does he take much sugar?" "Yes."

"Well, cut out sugar." "Does he take salt?" "Yes."

"Well, cut it out." "Does he use cream in his coffee?" "Yes."

"Does he like coffee?" "Yes." "Well, cut that out, too."

GUARDED SECRET
I hope they never find out between them that I smoke cigarettes.

To cap it all, before breakfast this morning a nurse with the most dazzling, winning smile I've ever been thrilled by, said she wanted to see me in the office.

She ordered me on the scales. Then with a change of expression that could mean determination, vindictiveness or just plain sadism, she muttered:

"Tubby Hubby, eh! We'll fix that."

I'm just wondering if I'm not being led up the old garden path.

Maybe somebody should file a writ of habeas corpus.

P.S.—If Cap Thorsen or any of the staffers should pay another visit, you might mention that what I would like most in the world is for them to bring a large loaf of crusty bread, a slab of Danish blue cheese and one large, raw Spanish onion and whatever beverage that suggests itself to them . . . smuggled in about 10 at night.

F. J. (TOM) MERRIMAN.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You're Not So Important You Can't Take Vacation

Take a vacation! I know it may deliver a blow to our egos but I think the old world would rock along without any one of us, and our families would, too.

I do not intend to minimize our importance to those who love us or to those for whom we work, but we all take ourselves too seriously. Over and over again we see the picture of the man or woman who worked so hard for success in a career or in family relations, that they did not live long enough to enjoy the success they achieved. That just doesn't make sense!

No one is so important that they cannot take at least two weeks out of each year away from responsibility. With the mounting mortality rate from heart failure and circulatory troubles, it is just plain silly not to let down and give yourself a break. Men and women both need this yearly "breather."

Time spent away from the usual daily routine lifts the cloud of hecticness and daily view and allows the pieces of life to fall into place. You come back refreshed, with a shining new glimpse of why you are doing what you are doing.

I do not know whether it is better to be in the rut of moderate accomplishment or of great success. Both seem to have the power to tie one up in knots and dampen the sense of adventure in living. The professional or business man will make better judgments for having had his relaxation and the woman in the home will again be able to see the goal toward which her daily routine is leading.

What kind of a vacation you take is a different matter! Make it one which refreshes you. If you are the sort of person who responds so vibrantly to new places that the long trip there doesn't count, then go somewhere! If on the other hand you are tired and really need rest, stay at home—but please, don't be a silly goof.

Take a vacation! If you are going on a camping trip and would like some helpful suggestions, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 69, "Tricks in Camping," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Seashells, flowers and the provincial floral emblem, the dogwood, all were used by local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, in decorations for luncheons and banquets during the week-end northwest regional convention held at the Empress Hotel.

Dogwood luncheon was the closing event in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel on Sunday. Head table was decorated with sprays of dogwood and dogwood lapel pins were given as favors to everyone present.

International representative Blanche Pace gave the luncheon address. Clement May did impersonations and Miss Lorna Langley played selections on her harp. Closing ritual was conducted by Lillian Jones with the soloist Miss Florence Smith accompanied by Miss Joyce Richardson.

Formal dinner, Saturday evening in the ballroom was in the floral theme. Guest speaker was Mrs. Nancy Hodges. Mrs. Meleta O'Hara international Beta Sigma Phi travel counsellor brought greetings and others taking part on the program were Mrs. Catherine Dash and Mrs. Mary Youson, soloists, accompanied by Maquinn Anderson.

Miss Jean Montgomery, representing five delegates from Regina, was honored as coming the farthest distance to the convention, and will receive a bouquet of Victoria flowers when she returns to her home.

The convention ball followed the banquet. "By the Sea" luncheon was held on Saturday. Table decorations were driftwood, seaweed and seashells. Favors were made of seashells in numerous designs and patterns. Nautical motif was carried out in white nets, anchors, starfish and replicas of seagulls. A Meistersinger quartet sang sea chanteuses.

League Gives $23,000 to Help With Work of Crippled Children

Highlight of the annual meeting and dinner of Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, Monday evening in the Century Room at the Monterey, was the ceremony of "giving away" all the money made by the group during the past year.

A cheque for $23,000 was presented by retiring president, Miss Marguerite Hinkman, to Logan Mayhew, chairman of the board of directors, for maintenance; three cheques for $250, $200 and $150 were given by the vice-president, Mrs. Betty Fraser, to Dr. D. M. Boyd, Solarium superintendent, for a cot, muscle stimulator and X-ray screen and film hangers.

Miss Doris Fielder presented Mrs. Audrey Counter, Vancouver, president of the Avair Club, an auxiliary to the league, with $100 and Mrs. Frances Wilson gave Mrs. J. Jones, representing the Solarium Women's Auxiliary, a cheque for $100.

Total receipts for the year, as shown in report of the treasurer, Mrs. Rawnsley, were $23,898.56. There is a balance in the bank of $15.98.

In her address, Miss Hinkman listed more than 20 money-making events during the year, in which the 50 active members of the league took part.

NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Evelyn Miller conducted the election, assisted by Mrs. Evelyn Forrest and Miss Bette Marr.

Unanimously elected president was Mrs. Betty Fraser. Other officers are: Mrs. Mary Rawnsley, vice-president; Mrs. Forrest, recording secretary; Miss Pat Jones, corresponding secretary, and Miss Betty Morris, treasurer.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Stuart Keate, publisher of Victoria Daily Times, his subject,

Free Tea to Assist Annual Summer Fete

Mrs. M. Hanley is convenor of a free tea which will be held in St. Andrew's Cathedral parish hall on June 30 from 2 to 4, when contributions for sewing, fancy work, children's wear stalls and fish-pond will be received for the summer fete to be held in the hall on July 5. Both affairs are sponsored by the Senior Subdivision, Catholic Women's League.

"I have a great sense of pride in our work in the past year," said Miss Hinkman, as she handed the cheque to Logan Mayhew of the Queen Alexandra Solarium board, while Mrs. Betty Fraser smiles approval.

"That Elusive Canadian Character—or What Is a Canadian?"

Mr. Keate spoke briefly of the Massey report which made a "monumental effort" to present the Canadian character to the world; he described the difficulties of a "small nation living in the shadow of a powerful neighbor, which shares a common language," and our standard of living, "second highest in the world."

He listed in the basic elements of Canadian culture, the Cowichan sweater, and an open-air ice rink in a prairie city. And he said "we have come around to the view that a nation is not known solely by its factories, its grain elevators or its forests, but by the character of its people."

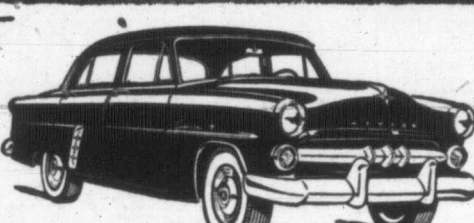

He suggested that "the mold of the elusive Canadian character had already been cast by our forbears."

"Its component parts would certainly include courage, fibre, and an inner strength of quiet eloquence," he said, "a warm pride even in the ringing name of our country, Canada, and the not too spectacular attribute, dependability," he said.

Mr. Keate was introduced by Miss Hinkman and thanked by Miss Betty Marr.

Special guests at the dinner meeting included Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew, Mr. and Mrs. Keate, Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, Dr. and Mrs. Trotter, Mrs. Vicki Peters and L. B. Peters, G. Holdstock, Mrs. Beverley Landrum and Mrs. Mary Newson of the Vancouver Theatrical Club and Mrs. Counter and Mrs. Doreen Muir, Vancouver Avair Club.

Soft notes of the organ, played by Graham Steel, vases of white gladioli at the altar and tiny swansons at guest pews, created the setting in Christ Church Cathedral Monday evening for the wedding of Eleanor Louise Margaret Miles and David Lionel Whittingham, Vernon, B.C.

Archbishop Sexton heard the marriage vows. The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Miles, Brookleigh Road, Elk Lake, and the groom son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Whittingham, Henderford Road, Victoria.

Walking up the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride was a radiant picture in her gown of heirloom lace over lustrous slipper satin styled with fitted bodice featuring a portrait collar, long petal point sleeves and front inset of tiers of nylon lace. The rippling skirt was slightly en train.

A bandeau of nylon net touched with orange blossoms, worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day, held the fingertip length veil and the bouquet was of gardenias, and stephanotis.

The ring used to complete the ceremony had belonged to the bride's great-grandmother.

Trio of attendants were Miss Lorraine Miles, the bride's sister, as maid of honor in ice pink nylon tulle over taffeta, and Miss Maureen Smith and Miss Shirley Ward, the bridesmaids, in ice blue.

All three gowns were exclusively styled with bouffant ballerina length skirts and off-shoulder shirred bodices. The trio wore matching headresses and bouquets of pink carnations.

Arthur Whittingham stood with his brother as best man, and Glen Grant, Ken Higgs, Harry Millard and Paul Ward were the ushers.

Oak Bay Beach Hotel was scene of the reception where Mrs. Miles in floor-length orchid chiffon gown with lace jacket, matching accessories, and corsage of Ophelia roses, and Mrs. Whittingham in a floor-length dusty pink gown with white and navy accessories, and gardenia and stephanotis corsage, assisted in receiving guests.

Bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with sweetheart roses and flanked with silver candelabra which was cut with a knife that had belonged to the bride's maternal great-grandmother.

R. L. Shaw proposed the toast.

The young couple are motoring to Portland on their wedding trip, the bride traveling in a tailored turquoise gabardine suit, white accessories and wearing a white orchid corsage.

They will live in Vernon, B.C.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Blood Count Reveals Condition of Body

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A. H. J. says: "We hear people say 'his blood count is low,' but what is it that is low? Is it the red corpuscles? What is the normal blood count?"

Today, a complete medical examination almost always includes the removal of a small amount of blood, and the testing of this blood in various ways for the three most common kinds of blood examination, namely, counting the red and white cells, and measuring the coloring matter, or hemoglobin.

Only a small amount of blood is necessary— usually a drop from the ear or finger is all that is needed. For other tests, larger amounts of course may be needed.

Mr. J. is undoubtedly correct when he suspects that saying the blood count is low probably refers to the number of red blood corpuscles.

There are about 5,000,000 red cells in a measured small amount of blood called a cubic millimeter. There are about 7,000 white cells in the same amount of blood. Both kinds of cells are counted under a microscope. If the red cells are far below normal, anemia is present.

The kind of anemia and determination of its severity also requires examination of the coloring matter of hemoglobin.

By putting the results of the examination of the red cells and of the hemoglobin together and by staining thin films of blood on a glass slide and looking at it under the microscope, doctors can tell what forms of anemia are present.

WHITE CELLS AID DIAGNOSIS

The white cells are also important— both their numbers and other characteristics. There may be too few white cells and this is not a good sign if infection is present in the body. The number of white cells is usually increased in infections and in some other conditions.

The number of white cells present, for example, is helpful in making a diagnosis of acute appendicitis. The white cells are increased and are abnormal in other ways in leukemia.

There are many other things which the blood can show about the condition of the body. Without them many diseases would remain undiagnosed or improperly treated.

Alaska Highway Bridge Opened by Army Engineers

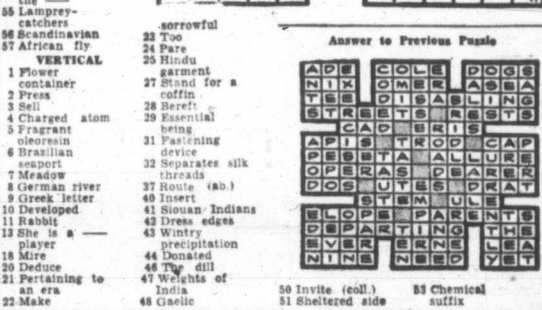

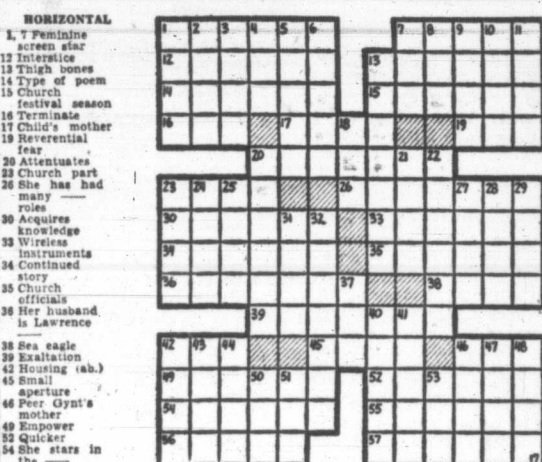

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., June 17 (BUP) — Heavy traffic rolled across the Donjek bridge, the largest building project ever undertaken by Canadian Army engineers, as the vital new link in the Alaska Highway went into operation Monday.

The bridge, located near Whitehorse, 250 miles south of the Arctic circle, was opened by Brig. J. L. Melville, honorary colonel of the engineers.

The 1,600-foot massive concrete and steel bridge spans the turbulent Donjek River. It replaces a timber trestle bridge that fell victim of flash floods every year since the strategic highway was opened.

During construction, 55,000 cubic yards of permafrost had to be blasted, scraped and moved to provide approach roads. Sappers blasted through two feet of volcanic ash to clear solid ice deposited there during the ice age.

It is never a good idea to press over a grass stain. Heat will permanently set the stain.

Alberta Debtors Receive Aid From Government Act

EDMONTON, June 17 (CP)—The debtors' assistance board, set up by the Alberta government in 1943, has helped thousands of Alberta debtors and creditors to reach agreements.

In the last three years, the board has settled 2,722 cases involving debts reaching nearly $3,000,000.

The board's object is to advise and assist debtors and mediate in meetings between debtors and creditors.

Creditors as well as debtors may seek assistance from the board in an attempt to negotiate amicable settlements. Young married couples who have committed themselves too heavily on instalment purchases make up a large percentage of the present cases.

A debtor faced with foreclosure may appeal to the board to arrange for extension of time for payment with the creditor.

Since the board succeeded the debt adjustment board, established 20 years previously, it has helped thousands of people escape court action and hundreds of creditors who otherwise might never have received payment.

TWO FOR THE SHOW

By PHIL LEE
AA (Oscar class). BB (Worthwhile).
A (Don't miss). B (For rainy days).
C (To put in time).

LONE STAR (Capitol)—There is nothing wrong with Clark Gable that a cracking good show won't fix. Unfortunately, for the unforgettable Rhet Butler in "Gone With the Wind," the lovable newspaperman who won an Oscar with Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night," "Lone Star" is not the vehicle.

Gable, known to his studio as "the King" has never been considered a great actor. But he has been recognized as an excellent one. But the greatest of them all couldn't have done much better than Gable did with his heavily-lined, artificial role as Dev Burke, Texas adventurer and cattle owner, circa 1845, when Texans couldn't make up their minds whether they wanted to be an empire or a member of the Union.

Most pictures I see these days all seem to have "directorial" woes. For the most part Lone Star was exactly what it was purported to be—a western. The historical hokus-pokus concerning Texas' statehood served as a thinly disguised structure for a boy-meets-girl—loses-girl—wows-girl—back plot. The riding scenes are good enough, the camera work excellent. But then the whole theme loses its dignity and degenerates to a farcical level in a hammy rough-and-tumble fight scene reminiscent of a Mack Sennet, Keystone Cops slapstick. For all of which Director Vincent Sherman wins the fur-lined duncecap.

For what they have to work with Ava Gardner as Martha Rondo and Broderick Crawford as Thomas Craden, deserve commendation, particularly Crawford, who you will remember for his excellent work as the "heavy" in "All the King's Men" and "Born Yesterday," a most accomplished and talented actor.

QUEEN'S PICTURE MARKS $10 BILL AS COUNTERFEIT

HAMILTON, June 17 (CP).—A $10 bill bearing the Queen's picture turned up here Saturday. It was counterfeit.
Mrs. Minnie Miller, clerk in a hardware store, said she was offered the bogus note by two men who bought a paint brush and a broom handle.
"This isn't real," she protested. "Why, it's got the picture of Queen Elizabeth on it and she hasn't been crowned yet."
They have just been issued," said the man.
When Mrs. Miller hesitated, the man handed her a genuine $10 bill, took change and left hurriedly.
R.C.M.P. are investigating.

HELL, Mich., June 17 (AP).—It was hotter than the devil here Monday.
Residents of the southeastern Michigan community sweltered in 103-degree heat.

More Power Seen for People of North

OTTAWA, June 17 (CP)—The people of Canada's fast-growing north country are going to be given more say in the administration of their affairs.

Resources Minister Winters Monday night introduced in the Commons legislation to give the commission of the Northwest Territories some of the powers now vested in the government. He did not enumerate the powers, but said they will help bring administration of the north more in line with existing conditions.

He recalled that last year for the first time three members of the nine-member council which administers the territories were elected by residents of the north. The new legislation will increase to $25 from $15 the daily living allowance for members of the council while it is in session. Provision is made for establishment of a territorial court and for the appointment of police magistrates.

George Murray (L-Cariboo) said he believes a single-day indemnity for council members while they are sitting is not enough. They should get an indemnity comparable to members of provincial legislature.

The Crisis and
The Constitution

Unless it is solved by the final count of election ballots — which seems unlikely — the political deadlock in British Columbia will be without precedent in modern Canadian history. There can hardly be any further question about one thing — no party will control the new legislature. The real question is whether any government can be erected and can govern. The answer to that question is far more important than the fortunes of any party.

This unparalleled situation must be considered first from the constitutional standpoint.

Constitutionally Mr. Johnson, whether he is elected in New Westminster or not, remains the key figure. He is the premier, the adviser of the Crown, and his advice to the Crown must be accepted.

As soon as the ballot count is completed, Mr. Johnson must advise the Crown either to retain him as its adviser or to choose another. The right of the prime minister to advise and the duty of the Crown to accept his advice have always been inherent in the British system of parliamentary government and were finally established in Canada by the constitutional crisis of 1926.

The right of the prime minister to advise and have his advice accepted carries with it heavy obligations. He must be prepared to accept the responsibility for his advice and its results.

The duty of the prime minister in such circumstances is perfectly clear in principle. It is not for him to tell the Lieutenant-Governor which party has the best policy but which party can form a government and win the confidence of the legislature. The only concern of the Crown is to find an adviser whom the legislature will support, whatever the policy of that adviser may be.

Mr. Wismer suggests that the various parties shall confer, arrange matters and avoid the expense and confusion of another early election.

It is quite proper for the party leaders to confer and to see whether any two or more of them can agree on any arrangement which will establish a government with a majority of the legislature ready to support it.

It would also be quite proper for Mr. Johnson to remain in office without a majority, without the largest group in the legislature, or even without a seat himself, until he can test the legislature's wishes, just as Mr. King did in somewhat similar circumstances after the election of 1925 — provided Mr. Johnson thinks that his government will have the legislature's support.

But obviously Mr. Johnson must have good reason to believe that he can win the legislature's confidence before he can advise the Crown to retain him.

If, on the other hand, he believes that any other person can form a government and win a vote of confidence in the legislature, he is bound to advise the Crown to call upon that person, no matter what Mr. Johnson may think of his successor and his successor's policies.

To judge these prospects Mr. Johnson may rightly discuss matters with other party leaders. The notion, however, that somehow a kind of unofficial secret caucus can make deals and settle these constitutional issues to suit itself must be dismissed at once. British Columbia is not concerned here with some minor point of procedure, some issue of party policy or the fortunes of individual politicians. The constitution, the government and the Crown cannot be made the playthings of intrigue to suit anyone's convenience.

The mistakes and misfortunes of parties and individuals can be absorbed, corrected and forgotten in the constitutional process. There can be no tampering with the process itself, no involvement of the Crown in politics, no escape from the principle of ministerial responsibility to the legislature.

Judgment on any action which Mr. Johnson or a successor may take after the ballots are counted must be rendered by the legislature, of which the government is only a committee. The legislature will say by its votes whether it is ready to allow Mr. Johnson or some other prime minister to govern. No one can possibly foresee the legislature's decision when party strength is so splintered.

For this reason it is essential that the legislature shall meet without delay after the final count of ballots. Until the legislature meets and votes confidence or non-confidence in the government of Mr. Johnson or someone else, British Columbia must live in a constitutional hiatus with nothing better than a shadow government. Such a situation cannot be allowed to continue a day longer than necessary. Before September the legislature should meet and end this state of suspended animation one way or the other. It is unthinkable that any zombie government should remain in office, without the judgment of the people through their legislature, for more than a few weeks at most.

In the interim — prolonged by the laborious counting of the ballots — the government is the government, with all the powers and all the responsibilities that government involves. It has no mandate or right to inaugurate new policies, to make appointments or to sign any but routine contracts. But it must administer the public business and it must enforce the law. The government, as the essential institution of an orderly society, is entitled to the respect of the public however the public may regard the political party presently administering the state. Whatever happens to political parties and politicians, the Queen's writ must always run.

Was late for lunch today. Miss them mill whistles.

See they've got th' go-ahead t' send gas into B.C. from Edmonton through a pipe. That should be an improvement over th' personal courier system we've seen workin' th' last few weeks.

11 Polio Cases

Eleven cases of poliomyelitis have been reported in British Columbia so far this year, the provincial health department reported today.

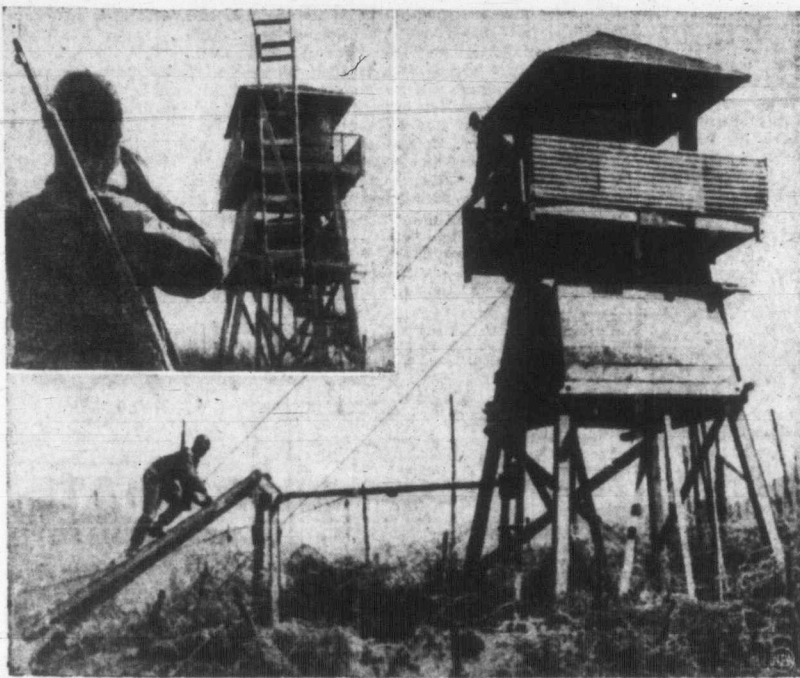

Up to the middle of June last year there was only one case.

A nine-year-old Vancouver boy recently died of the disease. Latest victim is a West Point Grey child.

Jumps From Barge

VANCOUVER, June 17 (CP) — Harry Richmond jumped from a sinking Imperial Oil barge to a tug early today, only seconds before the barge overturned.

The heavy steel barge overturned and sank after colliding with a pier at Second Narrows Bridge. Crew members of the tug which was tied alongside managed to cast off before the tug was dragged over with the barge.

Koje Drawbridge Protects Guards

Borrowing a device from medieval days, U.N. guards on Koje Island make use of the centuries-old drawbridge for protection. In inset, relief guard advances and is recognized by guard in tower. Drawbridge is then lowered over barbed-wire entanglements, and guards change places. Bridge is insurance against sneak attack by escaped P.O.W.'s or any charge against the tower in force.

East Germans Fight Off
Reds With Clubs, Scythes

BERLIN, June 17 (UP) — East Germans were reported fighting with clubs and scythes today against Red police who sought to move them from a Communist-designated no-man's-land along the border of West Germany.

Refugees from the East German side of the border told of the fighting as the East German government for the first time confirmed its plans to form an army on the Soviet pattern.

The refugees said fighting has been under way for more than

German Communist People's Police to drive them from their farms and homes.

Other villagers burned their homes and barns rather than leave them to the Communists, the refugees said. The Reds want to clear a wide strip of territory along the frontier, ostensibly to prevent western "saboteurs" from entering East Germany but more likely to prevent East Germans from fleeing westward.

However, more than 350 East German refugees have arrived in Berlin alone in the past 24 hours. Many had crossed from East Germany under fire from Communist police and border guards. Some stretches of the frontier were mined and patrolled by fierce dogs.

The proposed new East German army was expected to become a potent new weapon with which the East German Communist government can crack down on the restive inhabitants.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl announced in a speech at Leipzig Monday that all members of the government "bloc of anti-Fascist parties" had approved a declaration for formation of an East German army.

He said the proclamation asserted that East Germany had been "forced to set up its own national armed forces in order to save peace and to prevent the planned American attack."

Walkout Halts Work
On Big City Projects

A second major strike within 48 hours today threatened to close down the construction industry in Victoria and district as carpenters walked off their jobs on three major projects.

This followed the shutdown in the logging and lumbering business which became effective Monday when the I.W.A. men did not turn up for work and picketed plants here as part of the general logging and lumber strike that has more than 32,000 men idle on the coast.

Becoming more serious daily is the threat of 6,000 fishermen to strike June 22 unless salmon canners meet their price demands. It is estimated the lumber strike is costing province $1,000,000 a day.

The Victoria carpenters found themselves on strike today with a suddenness that surprised both the general membership and the industry.

"The decision was made at midnight Monday," an official of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners said today. "By Wednesday morning all jobs will be out. About 1,500 building tradesmen, including 500 carpenters, will be affected."

First walkouts were at the bark block construction at H.M. C.S. Naden, the Work Point project, and construction at B.C. Cement Co. Ltd., at Bamberton.

At a regular carpenters' meeting Monday, the decision to set a strike date was left with the union negotiating committee. It decided upon rapid action, in view of an application for a lockout vote to the Labor Relations Board, made by 18 contractors of Victoria Builders' Exchange.

Arrangements were made to finish work on the roof of a radar building at Work Point, and to complete concrete jobs that are under way.

The bitter fight between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations, Ltd., representing 163 logging and lumber employers, was no closer to settlement today.

The union repeated its stand that it will meet with F.I.R. Ltd. any time the latter says. "We'll meet the union any time, any place, and anywhere when it complies with the law," a spokesman for the employers said today.

Indications are that the Silver Wake, now completing its load at Ogden Point, will be the last ship loaded with lumber here as long as the I.W.A. strike lasts.

This was forecast today by Cliff Richards, president and business agent of the local branch of the International Longshoremen's Association.

"We are respecting the picket line. The lumber which is piled up on the dock by the ship is 'hot.' By agreement with the I.W.A. we are completing this load from lumber of a scow loaded at the mill before the strike," he said.

Four more ships are due here in the near future for lumber loads. The Greek ship was scheduled to leave this afternoon.

"We are not necessarily giving this strike our blessing, but we traditionally do not cross picket lines without permission," he continued.

However, Mr. Richards added if lumber is to continue to be loaded in other ports by other than I.L.A. men "we will have to reconsider our position."

He stressed that the I.L.A. did not want to be in the position of being "picked on" in this strike.

Island Man
Held After
Tot Killed

Duncan lawyer Frederick W. Galloway is being held under constant R.C.M.P. guard in Victoria city jail on a charge of murdering his two-year-old grandson, Robert John Horsfield at Mayne Island Monday.

The 71-year-old man appeared Monday before Justice of the Peace A. J. Eaton at Ganges and was remanded a week for preliminary hearing.

Discovery of the boy's body—his throat slashed by a razor—was made early in the morning by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Horsfield.

... slain in bed

Mr. Galloway had been living with the family at the time. He was charged with murder following an inquest Monday afternoon.

Coroner E. C. Collins said the man was mentally unbalanced at the time of the slaying.

Said the coroner: "The child died of a hemorrhage from severed arteries in the throat, caused by a razor in the hands of Frederick William Galloway."

The accused was said to have been recovering from a nervous disorder and witnesses at the inquest added he had been discharged from a mental institution recently.

He had practised law in Duncan since 1929.

The boy's parents had moved to Mayne Island two years ago from Duncan when Rev. Mr. Horsfield became rector of the Island's Church of Mary Magdalene.

R.C.M.P. Sgt. Reg. Whittaker took charge of the investigation after arriving at the island from the Victoria detachment.

N.B. Plane Crash

BUDWORTH CITY, N.B., June 17 (UP) — A small plane crashed today while taking part in a 350 square mile operation to halt budworm infestation in New Brunswick forests.

The pilot, William C. Swanson of Idaho, was seen by other fliers waving a helmet on the end of a stick. He was believed to be injured. The Air Force ordered a helicopter and medical team into the area from Greenwood, N.S., and a ground party went there from the spraying base.
